INTRODUCTION

Now that you have the OFFICIAL FINAL FANTASY® IX strategy guide in your hands, we should explain something to you. This guide is the first of its kind, as we've taken a brand-new approach in creating an innovative type of gaming experience.

This guide is unlike any other strategy guide ever created. The guide is structured in a unique way to help maximize your gaming experience. So, what exactly does that mean? Let us explain.

As the front cover states, this guide is enhanced by the PlayOnline.com site. If you're not familiar with PlayOnline.com, it's the premier site for everything about FINAL FANTASY IX. Just log on to www.playonline.com to find out what it's all about. You'll find a complete walkthrough, area maps, vital weapon and armor stats, a detailed bestiary, plus much more!

Our guide was created with the PlayOnline.com site in mind. In fact, it was developed in unison with our good friends at SQUARESOFT. In essence, this strategy guide covers the key elements to get you through the game without giving too much away or revealing any plot "spoilers." Then to take it a step further, the guide provides a few occasional teasers where you'll find information exclusive to PlayOnline.com. Also, the PlayOnline.com site serves to supplement strategy contained in our guide. When used together, you will be rewarded with the most complete FINAL FANTASY experience.

USING THIS BOOK

The key element to look for in this book is the PlayOnline.com icon and note box. For your convenience, they always appear in the same place. It consists of a few key items that you must learn about, which are illustrated on the following page.

Each PlayOnline.com callout has a "KEYWORD" associated with it. The "KEYWORD" is very important; it determines how the book interacts with PlayOnline.com. When you log on to PlayOnline.com, enter the "KEYWORD" in the PlayOnline.com search window and PlayOnline.com will send you to an appropriate part of the online guide that provides additional strategy or tips.

Also, each callout has a bar that indicates the subject matter for the callout. Therefore, you can quickly scan the callout and see if it's something that you're looking for. If so, enter the "KEYWORD" on PlayOnline.com to get more information.

For example, in this sample you'll notice that the "KEYWORD" is CSTONE1, while the subject matter is SPECIAL ITEM. Knowing this, you can type in CSTONE1 and expect to receive additional information on this special item.

Return to the lower path and continue to the right. Up a sharp slope you'll meet the moogles Saruma, whom you may find a letter for. You may also encounter Shikahn, who offers to sell some more items. Move down to the left, climb up the ladder, and cross the giant tree root to the right.

You've certainly been wondering about the origin of the tree roots and their meaning. Now the answer lies before you, as Zidane spots the massive life tree far off in the distance. However, as you continue across the root to the end, you realize that getting there may be a tough battle.

BOSS FIGHT

BATTLE TACTICS:

1. Have Dagger or Eiko cast Float on the entire party.
2. Cast Ramuh.
3. Make Vivi cast Bio.

HILGIGARS

EIKO'S HOME

After the Boss fight, Eiko invites everyone to her home in the nearby town of Madain Sari. First, examine the statue in the fork in the path to get the Yellow Stone. Then proceed along the right path. Curve off onto the bottom path and swing down to a statue explaining a Green Stone. Now go back to the fork and continue to the right until you leave the Mountain Path area.

With this information in hand, it's time to begin your ultimate quest!

GAME BASICS

This section is here to help warm up beginners and advanced RPG veterans alike. The game system changes from one FINAL FANTASY to the next, so all players must roll with the changes.

If you are new to RPGs, welcome to a whole world of fun! Don't let the complexity of the exploration and combat control turn you off. Just focus on the basic aspects to start, and then concentrate on the specifics after you've played the game for a few hours. That's the way I became so engrossed in this genre!

Most of the information explained in this section is also contained in Mogster's tutorial. Of course, we've attempted to expand on Mogster's points to make things even simpler. You can learn from Mogster any time you visit a Qu's Marsh anywhere in Gaia. Also, several interludes occur during the first few hours of the game, where Mogster steps in to explain a few points.

BASICS OF EXPLORATION

FINAL FANTASY IX is an RPG (Role-Playing Game). The general idea is to search the world presented in the game, looking for powerful or valuable treasures and fighting evil monsters to save the planet.

Control of the game is managed by moving one character around an area. The one character represents the entire party, although the other characters may not appear on-screen. To see who is in the party, press the Triangle button to access the Main Menu. There will be opportunities for you to determine which characters are in the party, but sometimes there isn't a choice because of the situations of the game.

Either the directional pad or analog stick will move the character in the direction desired. As you get close to objects or areas of interest, a Field Icon appears above the character's head. The Field Icon is further explained in this section. Press the X button to search these areas to find useful items or important clues about how to proceed.

Talk to the citizens of towns and areas to learn about the world in which the characters live. You might gain important clues from these conversations about the enemies and areas that lie ahead, or about optional side quests that might be of benefit. Some people have little to say, or once they've said a lot to you they will only repeat their last sentence over and over. After searching any one area and speaking to all the people, it's time to move on to the next location.

Some special events or mini-games that occur during the adventure will have specific controls. The game includes instructions that are displayed at the beginning of each special event, each time you attempt it.

Any town, dungeon, castle, or cave that the party explores is considered a Field Map. The characters must also travel across the world from area to area. This is called traveling the World Map. You can travel the Field only on foot, but you can travel the World on foot, by vehicle, or on a chocobo (a little yellow bird that runs around yelling "KWEH!").

While visiting a well-populated town, random battles will not occur. However, when exploring a deserted castle, a wilderness cave or a dark dungeon, random battles with the monsters that reside in the area will occur.

Upon leaving a town or an area, the character emerges onto the World Map area. Random battles occur while traveling the world. The type of monsters encountered depend on the terrain and the geographic location of the area. Monsters are indigenous to their terrain. The terrain also determines the frequency of random battles. To avoid random battles with monsters, the party must travel in a vehicle or ride a chocobo. You can dismount a chocobo on any landmass other than mountains, whereas you can only land and disembark from a vehicle at a beach or a grassy, hospitable area. You can only disembark from a sea boat at a beach, port, or harbor.

Area Map

World Map

Crossing World Map on vehicle

You can only cross water and mountains by the use of the appropriate vessel, or a chocobo with the proper abilities. You can only land or disembark from chocobos and vehicles on certain types of terrain and never on mountainsides.

TERRAIN TYPES

Type	Frequency of Encounters	Disembark Vehicle?
Grassy	Normal	Boat, chocobo, or Airship
Swamp	High	Chocobo or Airship
Beach	Normal	Boat or chocobo
Forest	High	Chocobo
Desert	High	Chocobo or Airship

HELP MENU

Point the hand cursor at anything in the Main Menu and press SELECT to get some help from Mogster. When you do this, small blue windows will appear with descriptions of whatever the cursor is pointing at in the menu.

The moogles tell you the special abilities of items or the function of menu commands. You can also use the Help option during battles to learn more about what skills or tricks your characters can use.

FIELD ICON

During your adventure, the characters will move past a lot of suspicious or curious things in a given area. That's when a Field Icon might appear over the character's head. When you see the icon, press the X button to make something occur.

There are some areas where you might not be able to see your character on-screen. When this happens, pop out the HERE Icon, which is a large hand that points at the character's head. To call the HERE Icon, press SELECT. The default setting causes the HERE Icon to appear only when you enter an area or when you press SELECT. You can turn on/off the icon from the Config menu.

SAVE MOOGLES

Cute and friendly little moogles appear in almost every area that you explore in the world. They will save your game progress on a MEMORY CARD, or allow you to use a Tent to partially restore everyone's HP and MP (outside of KO'd characters) and remove some status abnormalities.

The Mognet option enables you to receive letters from other characters. The moogles also like for you to deliver letters from one moogle to another. To see if a moogle has any mail for you to deliver, choose the Mognet option, and then choose Cancel. If the moogle has a letter, you will get the option to deliver it.

Fortunately, the moogle to whom the letter is addressed is somewhere up ahead on the suggested path. To deliver the letter, talk to the moogle and select Mognet. An option should appear to deliver the letter.

Delivering letters between moogles is advantageous, because some moogles will give you Kupo Nuts or other rewards in return. You can give Kupo Nuts to the moogle family at Gizamaluke's Grotto to receive useful items.

While crossing the World Map, press the Square button and Moguo will rush to your aid. However, if you call him and then cancel, he'll get angry with you!

ITEMS

As you explore the world and conquer areas, you will acquire an incredibly large number of items. Items that have a "key" purpose in the game are kept in a different inventory from the rest of the "regular" items.

To see the purpose of any item, highlight it in the menu and press the SELECT button to bring up the Help Menu. To view the inscription on a Key Item, place the hand cursor over that item and press the X button. Inscriptions on items often provide a clue as to their use.

When equipping a character with items, only the kinds of items that the character is capable of using or wearing will be available to equip on them. You can find many pieces of equipment for free while exploring new areas, so carefully explore before purchasing items at shops. On the other hand, there are some weapons and armaments that are only available at shops, so save your Gil!

Some items are consumable, meaning that they are subtracted from inventory when used. You can restock some items, such as medicines, from specialized shops in towns and cities throughout the world. Keeping a good supply of all these items is essential to keeping the party effective and efficient in battle. Also, you can damage some enemies during battle by using these items against them.

You can also use gems and jewels to restore a certain amount of HP on the battlefield. You can use these items as equipment to learn powerful spells and abilities. Make sure that all of your characters learn the abilities contained in a stone before you use it to restore HP.

CONSUMABLE ITEM FUNCTIONS

Item	Use
Potion	Restores 100 HP in the field, 150 HP in battle
Hi-Potion	Restores 300 HP in the field, 450 HP in battle
Phoenix Down	Recovers a character from KO (zero HP)
Echo Screen	Cures Silence status
Soft	Cures Petrify and Gradual Petrify
Antidote	Cures Poison and Venom
Eye Drops	Cures Darkness
Magic Tag	Cures Zombie status
Vaccine	Cures Virus
Remedy	Cures various status impairments
Annoyntment	Cures Trouble status
Tent	Restores a large amount of HP and MP, removes some status effects

BATTLES

Most of the fun of playing an RPG lies in challenging and defeating powerful monsters and villains. Most battles that occur happen randomly, meaning that the characters are suddenly swept into a fight from time to time while traveling a certain area or while moving on foot across the world.

However, sometimes a monster is introduced, or it introduces itself. These creatures are usually enemies that you must fight to proceed in the game. They are commonly referred to as Boss enemies. You can expect Bosses to be much tougher, much more intelligent, and much trickier to defeat than all of the other enemies. Overcoming Boss monsters requires brilliant and sometimes risky strategies.

Battles usually don't occur in towns or cities, unless they are part of some kind of tournament or contest to win prizes. Most of your battles will occur suddenly as you are exploring dark and mysterious areas, where villains and evil lie in wait for young heroes.

When you enter the battle screen, your party will be aligned against an enemy party of one to four monsters. All characters have an opportunity to strike, which is their "combat turn." When all of the characters have attacked and the enemy has retaliated, one combat round is complete. Battles can go on for several rounds, until all of the enemies or all of the characters are dead or incapable of continuing to fight.

A character gets to fight when it becomes his/her turn. This is determined by a time gauge. When the character's time gauge fills up, you can choose commands for that character to execute. The eight playable characters in FINAL FANTASY IX all have different and unique abilities to utilize in battle. You must use the characters' skills so that the party functions as a team. Oftentimes, the magic-users are required to cast status-changing spells that will let the characters who can't use magic attack more effectively.

After each battle, characters may gain EXP, AP, Gil, and spoils. EXP is a measure of experience and allows the characters to gain levels and become more powerful. AP are Ability Points that are applied to each skill or ability that the characters are trying to learn. Thus, if you are trying to learn five abilities and you defeat a monster that yields 2 AP, then 2 points are applied toward learning each ability. Characters who are not in the current party do not gain EXP or AP.

Gil is money that can be used to purchase new items, equipment, and supplies. You can also use it to gamble, stay the night at an Inn, or bid on auction items. Monsters also drop spoils after the battle, which are items of all sorts including medicines, weapons, armor, equipment, Add-ons, and key items.

BASIC BATTLE CONTROLS

Button	Function
X	Confirm
Circle	Cancel
Triangle	Cycle to the next ready character when ATB gauge is full
Square	Hold down to hide menu
L1, R1	Select single/multiple targets
L2	Turn the target window on/off
START	Pause
SELECT	Turn on/off help

ATB

Time during battle is managed by the ATB System. ATB stands for "Active Time Battle." There are two ATB modes: Active and Wait. You can select the mode you prefer in the Config Menu. If you're new to RPGs, you should choose Wait. Selecting Active allows enemies to strike while you're trying to choose items or spells for your characters.

Active: Always real-time; time never stops during battle

Wait: Time stops while selecting magic and items

DAMAGE POINTS

Numbers and details pop up during battle whenever your HP and MP change. Numbers appear in two different colors. With HP, white numbers indicate damage, while green numbers indicate recovery. With MP, white numbers also indicate loss or drain, while green numbers indicate MP recharge.

DAMAGE DETAILS

Note	Definition
Miss	The attack misses. No damage inflicted or sustained.
Critical	Attack deals greater damage than usual. Sometimes twice the normal amount.
Death	Instant KO. Character must be revived with item or magic.
Guard	Status attacks or elemental assaults have no effect, due to some ability that is equipped or an inherent strength of the enemy.

ORDER

The positions and lineup of your characters on the battlefield is an important aspect of combat not to be overlooked. Outside of battle, you can change the order and the row of your characters using the Order option on the menu. To change your lineup, select the character you want to move, and press the X button. This causes another hand cursor to appear. Move the second hand cursor to the character you want the first character to change places with, and press the X button again to switch them.

Row is an even more important factor of positioning characters on the battlefield. There are two rows: the front and the back. In the front row, you can dish out big damage with a physical attack, but you may also receive a higher amount of damage. In the back row, characters can only cause a small amount of damage with the Attack command, but they will receive less damage from enemy attacks.

The rows automatically switch when a Back Attack occurs. This is when an enemy sneaks up on the party from behind. Damage to all characters will be greater in this situation. Those who are normally positioned in the back row are now in the front row, and vice versa. You can switch between front row and back row while in the battle menu by holding the directional button to the left. The Change option will appear, and this command will let your characters use their turn to change rows.

Characters who inflict greater damage with physical attacks should be placed in the front row, while characters who are more inclined toward magic use should be placed in the back. This is because spells cause the same amount of damage whether they are cast from either the back row or the front row. For those characters who dish out more damage with physical attacks, there are long-range weapons that enable fighters to cause as much damage from the back row.

When the character named Quina is recruited, s/he should be placed in the front row to start off. After Quina eats several monsters and learns a plethora of spells and abilities, you should start using Quina more as a magic-user, because his/her physical attacks inflict such a random amount of damage.

ABILITIES

Characters can learn and equip a variety of abilities from the weapons and items they receive. These abilities enable them to cast magic, cure status or damage, cause status or damage, and summon Eidolons to wreak havoc on the entire battlefield.

However, you can learn abilities that prevent the character from being afflicted by certain status ailments. Also, there are other abilities that can boost your characters' power in battle. Abilities are a complex subject, so please check out the Abilities section for more details.

TRANCE

Trance is something that occurs to characters who have sustained a lot of damage in battle. Most characters have a red Trance gauge, which indicates just how close they are to Trancing. You can view the Trance gauge during battle and when viewing the Status screen for any character. The gauge increases as the character takes hits from an enemy. This gauge doesn't increase if the character is struck by a fellow party member, since no hostility is ever intended between comrades. If afflicted with Zombie status, the Trance gauge is reduced to zero. When the Trance gauge fills completely, the character becomes an engine of destruction.

When Trance occurs, the character transforms. Powers increase while a character is under Trance. In addition to greater physical attack power, a new set of battle commands may also become available. Skills or special abilities that the character uses regularly gain a greater chance to strike effectively.

The time that the character stays in Trance is measured by the Trance Gauge. When the character under Trance performs actions, the gauge decreases. When the gauge reaches zero, Trance ends. Trance also ends when the battle ends.

STATUS EFFECTS

Status refers to a character's condition. There are good status effects and bad ones. Some go away at the end of a battle, while you must cure some with certain medicines or magic.

In addition to the ones listed in this section, there are Doom and Gradual Petrify. When these are cast or inflicted, a countdown from 10 to 1 occurs over the character's head. If the countdown reaches 0 and no cure has been administered, the character dies or turns to stone. You can cure Gradual Petrify by administering a Soft, or using the Stona or Esuna spells.

KO status (Knocked Out) is considered to be the status when a character is reduced to 0 (zero) HP. They will fall down unconscious, but you can revive them by using a Phoenix Down, a Phoenix Pinion, or by casting Life or Full-Life on them.

If all the characters are stricken with Stop, Petrify, Venom, or KO status, the game will end. Characters who are stricken with KO, Petrify, Virus, or Zombie do not receive EXP or AP when the battle is over.

Enemies can use status effects to make your battles much more difficult. Strategy is required to defeat such enemies, so you must equip the proper abilities before fighting such monsters. The Walkthrough provides some tips on which abilities to equip before certain battles so that you can avoid negative Status Effects.

The Reflect status causes spells cast to bounce from the target. Spells can only be reflected once. Thus, if an enemy is protecting itself with Reflect, cast Reflect on one of your characters and have your magic-users aim spells at that comrade. The spell will bounce off the fellow party member and attack the enemy.

You can use "good" status effects to increase a character's attack power or protective abilities. Enemies will use these types of status effects to their advantage as well. When a good status effect is achieved by casting a spell on a character, the effect will wear off after 2 or 3 combat rounds. Good statuses that are achieved by equipping support abilities on characters (such as Auto-Haste or Auto-Regen) will never wear off. The exception is Auto-Life, which only brings back the character from KO'd status once during each battle.

You can prevent many bad and very bad status effects by equipping preventative abilities such as Locomotion, Bright Eyes, Clear Headed, Antibody, etc. See the Abilities section for more details.

ELEMENTAL PROPERTIES

Characters and enemies can use magic and weapons that are imbued with elemental properties to gain an advantage in combat. This occurs when a weapon or spell calls upon some element found in nature or the environment to cause damage to an enemy. Most spells and summoned Eidolons employ elemental properties to inflict damage.

The elements are in constant conflict, and one element is always strong or weak against another elemental type. Because enemies use elements to make themselves strong against your attacks, it's important to master the use of elemental properties so that your attacks have more power and your spell casters' MP is not expended unwisely.

There are a total of eight Elemental Properties: Fire, Ice, Thunder, Earth, Water, Wind, Holy, and Shadow. There is also a non-elemental property, which is not affected by any other elemental property.

ELEMENTAL PROPERTIES

Element	Property
Fire	Effective against Ice and undead monsters
Ice	Effective against insects, large enemies, Fire, and dragon-type monsters
Thunder	Effective against enemies near water
Earth	Ineffective against flying monsters
Water	Effective against Fire monsters
Wind	Effective against flying monsters
Holy	Effective against shadow monsters
Shadow	Effective against holy monsters

SHOPS AND SYNTHESIS

As you defeat enemies, your party starts to amass a large quantity of money, called Gil. In almost every town or city you explore, you'll encounter a variety of shops where you can purchase consumable medicines and supplies and buy or sell weapons and equipment. Spend heavily on armor and Add-ons, and spend cautiously on weapons.

As you continue to explore new and dangerous areas, you will find free equipment in treasure chests. Sometimes you can purchase an item at a shop long before it becomes available in a dungeon or monster-filled castle, giving your party the extra edge.

In addition to regular shops where you can buy and sell items, there are synthesis shops. These are places where you can combine items to create new items. All you need are two items and a few Gil to cover labor. The items you need and the amount of money you pay vary for each synthesized item. There is a Legendary Synthesist in the game who can create unique and extremely powerful items. His location and his list of items to create are divulged in the Side Quests, Mini-Games, and Secrets section.

Avoid selling extra or useless items to shops until very late in the game. Although some items are worth a lot of money and provide a good way to make some quick Gil, you need many of the weapons and armors you find to synthesize new items that aren't available anywhere else but a synthesis shop.

CHARACTERS

ZIDANE TRIBAL

Zidane is a thief and a member of the Tantalus theater troupe. All of the other actors/thieves seem to look up to Zidane as a kind of older brother. He is also the favorite of his boss, Baku.

Zidane equips two daggers to attack, or he can wield a dual-bladed polearm. Zidane can use his MP to perform powerful, non-physical Thieves' Skills. He is also the first of the party members to discover the powerful Trance ability, which causes his learned Thieves' Skills to become powerful, over-the-top "Dyne" attacks, which cause anywhere from 2000-9999 HP damage!

STEALING ITEMS

Zidane can steal items from enemies, and he can improve and refine this skill by learning certain abilities. He can eventually steal better items first (Master Thief), and inflict damage while stealing (Mug). Until you learn such abilities, use the Detect skill to spot any items the enemies may possess.

PRINCESS GARNET TIL ALEXANDROS 17TH (AKA, DAGGER)

Princess Garnet of the Royal House of Alexandria is the heir to the throne, and the daughter of Queen Brahne. From a very young age, Garnet has taken a keen interest in the legendary Eidolons. In her pre-teen years, she learned that the ability to summon several different Eidolons lay dormant within her.

When the princess is kidnapped by Zidane and Tantalus, she decides to use the opportunity to travel the world and learn more about her latent powers. To keep a low profile while away from the castle, she adopts the alias "Dagger." Her friends use this nickname fondly. Dagger attacks with either rackets or rods, but her true power lies in her use of White Magic.

SUMMONING EIDOLONS

The princess can learn to summon powerful Eidolons by equipping gemstones until she gains enough AP to summon the deity on her own. Most of her summoning involves powerful elemental and non-elemental attacks. Eidolons will not always appear during a summons. They always appear the first time you summon them, and thereafter the chance of them appearing during the summons is random. Usually, they just send their weapons to do the dirty work.

When the Eidolon appears during the summon animation, the attack is nearly twice as powerful. When Dagger goes into Trance, there is a much stronger chance that the Eidolon will appear. Dagger can summon the Eidolon to appear each time by learning the Boost ability.

SUMMONING SECRETS

Dagger's Odin summons has a certain percentage chance to cause instant death to an enemy. However, if Odin fails to cause death, no damage is inflicted whatsoever unless the "Odin's Sword" support ability is equipped. This causes wind damage to all enemies in case instant death fails to occur.

The Atomos summons has a different attack percentage depending on whether the full animation or just the partial animation is shown. The strength of other summons depends on the type and number of jewels in your inventory.

CAPTAIN ADELBERT STEINER

Steiner is the Captain of the Knights of Pluto, a cadre of misfit soldiers serving Queen Brahne of Alexandria. It is Steiner's sworn duty to protect the Queen and the Princess, and he holds that solemn oath in higher regard than all other priorities.

You can only equip Steiner with heavy armor and knightly swords. He can learn a variety of skills that damage as well as reduce an enemy's strength. In addition, Steiner can perform magical sword attacks when Vivi is in the party. This enables Steiner to attack with the added effect of the Black Mage's magic. When Steiner Trances, his regular physical attacks cause almost twice the normal amount of damage!

KEYWORD:
VIVI4

VIVI ORUNITIA

Vivi is a young Black Mage who is asked by Zidane to join the party. Although his past is a mystery even to himself, Vivi struggles to learn about the nature of the world and his destiny. Vivi can learn Black Magic attack spells by equipping items, but the staves that he wields are extremely low in physical attack power. This means that Vivi depends on having a hefty amount of MP at the beginning of all battles.

BLACK MAGIC

The very nature of Black Magic is to destroy or attack. Vivi learns most of his spells from wooden staves that you can find or purchase as the game progresses. Vivi should start each major battle by using his first couple of turns to "Focus" his magical powers. This is a command on his battle menu, and it can sometimes double the power of his spells!

Vivi learns some incredibly powerful magical attacks, but because his physical strikes are so weak, he depends on spell-casting to an extreme. Thus, Vivi's abilities are practically negated if the enemy casts a Reflect spell. To counter this, a White Mage (like Dagger or Eiko) must cast Reflect on a party member, and then Vivi can bounce spells off of him or her at the enemy.

Arguably, Vivi's most powerful spell is the Doomsday spell, which inflicts Shadow damage upon everything on-screen. Prepare your party accordingly when Doomsday is cast, and learn how to use it effectively against enemies.

KEYWORD:
FRYA5

FREYA CRESCENT

A member of the Royal Dragon Knights of Burmecia, this mysterious female warrior has left her homeland to search the world for her lost love. Learning of the events transpiring around Gaia, she is compelled to join Zidane and the party.

Freya attacks with giant lances and spears. She can also learn the skills of a Dragon Knight, which enable her to restore and protect the party, as well as perform some other devastating attacks.

JUMPING AND DRAGON KNIGHT SKILLS

While her normal physical attack is mediocre in power, the Jump command can be used to make Freya leap high into the air, where she gathers enough power to perform her devastating Spear attack. While in the air, Freya cannot be attacked or inflicted with negative or positive status effects. If Regen has been cast on her prior to Jumping, she will continue to regain HP while off-screen. When Freya Trances, command her to Jump and she will remain in the air, showering all enemies with a hail of spears!

Freya learns powerful and extremely helpful Dragon Knight abilities by equipping various lances and spears. However, since these are considered skills and not magic, she can still use these abilities in places where magic is negated!

QUINA QUEN

You can recruit this strange and funny creature from his/her home on the Mist Continent Qu's Marsh. Quina is a Qu, and his/her language is a bit primitive. Being a gourmand, Quina wishes to travel the world with Zidane and find good things to eat. This desire enables Quina to consume enemies on the battlefield. Not only does this remove the enemy, but Quina may learn a Blue Magic ability by eating it!

Because Quina's physical attacks cause an unpredictable amount of damage on each strike, it's important to teach Quina as many useful skills as possible. Eventually, the Qu should be treated more like a Blue Mage than a fighter, and should be placed in the back row in your party's order.

EATING BLUE MAGIC

During any battle, Quina can attempt to Eat an enemy; however, the enemy must be in a weakened state (near death) for this to succeed. After selecting the Eat command, Quina will tell you whether the monster is ready to be eaten. If the enemy is weak enough, Quina will simply eat it. As the monsters you encounter become more powerful, it becomes difficult for Quina to eat them and learn abilities. Use Dagger's Scan ability to determine the current HP of each monster. When their HP gets low, only have your weakest attackers strike and then keep trying to eat the monster each round. Casting spells such as Slow or Mini will aid in the digestion process.

Quina can eat almost any kind of monster, and even some Boss monsters too. The abilities that Quina learns enable you to perform some tricks that will help you kill monsters and confront Bosses more effectively. Since some monsters only appear up to a certain point in the game, try to eat various monsters as you encounter them to learn as many abilities as you can.

FROG CATCHING

In addition to Quina's Eat ability, Quina will also ask if s/he can catch frogs whenever you enter the frog pond area of a Qu's Marsh. There is one Qu's Marsh on the Mist Continent, one on the Outer Continent, and two on the Forgotten Continent. Quina can catch frogs in any of these ponds.

QUINA & "FROG DROP"

The number of frogs s/he catches determines how much damage the "Frog Drop" attack causes. More on frog catching is detailed at PlayOnline.

EIKO CAROL

Eiko lives alone in her home village of Madain Sari. She is the last of the "summoners" who once dwelt there. But now she lives in her house amongst the ruins, in the company of her moogle friends.

When Eiko meets Zidane and the party, she demonstrates her awesome summoning powers in battle. Eiko comes along with the adventurers because Dagger is very interested in learning more about summoning, and Eiko has set her sights on making Zidane her new boyfriend!

SUMMONING EIDOLONS

Eiko can learn to summon powerful Eidolons by equipping gemstones and other Add-ons until she gains enough AP to summon the being on her own. Her summons involve powerful elemental and non-elemental attacks, and also protective and restorative magic that affects the whole party at once.

Eidolons will not always appear during a summons. They always appear the first time you summon them, and thereafter the chance of them appearing during the summons is random. When the Eidolon appears during the summon animation, then the effect is nearly twice as powerful. When Eiko goes into Trance, there is a much stronger chance that the Eidolon will appear. Eiko can make the Eidolon appear each time by learning the Boost ability.

SUMMONING SECRETS

While Eiko only learns to summon four Eidolons throughout the course of the game, you can make some of these beings perform various spells and attacks depending on what Add-on Eiko equips. As you play through the game, you'll see that Eiko actually has just as many summon variations as Dagger.

In addition, once Eiko learns how to summon Phoenix from a Phoenix Pinion, there is a chance that Phoenix will completely restore the party if everyone gets KO'd. You can determine the percentage chance of this occurring by dividing the total number of Phoenix Pinions in stock by 256. So don't use or sell those Phoenix Pinions; they're hard to come by!

AMARN8

ABILITIES

AMARANT CORAL

The Flaming Amarant is the willful and independent bounty hunter assigned to stop the heroes. When he sees the power Zidane possesses, he agrees to join in the mission to save Gaia. However, Amarant continues to be competitive with Zidane and dismissive of the others, and his attitude can only be viewed as hostile. He's a real mystery. Why does Amarant have such an attitude, and why does he remain with the party?

THROWING WEAPONS AND FLAIR

Amarant rips enemies with sharp claws or pounds them with hard knuckles. When properly equipped and taught the proper skills, he can be the fiercest warrior on the battlefield. In addition to his fighting skills, Amarant can inflict incredible amounts of damage to a foe by throwing various weapons at them (another reason not to sell your items). Although your extra weapons will cause great amounts of damage, the best items to throw are Pinwheels, Rising Suns, and Wing Edges. You can buy these weapons at most equipment shops in any town.

Amarant is a skilled assassin, but he can cast magic and perform skills to crush monsters and protect and revive his fellow party members. See, he's not such a dark loner after all!

ABILITIES

Abilities are special powers that characters possess. There are a ton of different abilities, but generally they fall into 2 categories.

Action Abilities: Signified with a red jewel icon, these are magic spells and special moves you can use in battle. Oftentimes, it consumes MP to use them.

Support Abilities: Signified with a blue-green jewel icon, these are special abilities that support and protect characters during battle.

To be functional, you must equip support abilities with magic stones. Similar to MP, the maximum number of stones a character can use to equip abilities increases as the character levels up. The Main Menu shows two numbers for magic stones: the remaining number and the maximum number. The first number shows the remaining stones, and will decrease as you equip support abilities. The second number indicates the maximum number usable by the character, and increases as a character levels up.

To set magic stones on support abilities, select Ability in the Main Menu and then select Equip. There are circles next to each support ability. The ability is equipped if a magic stone appears to fill the slot. The menu shows which support abilities have been equipped. A darker icon indicates that the ability is not equipped.

REMEMBER THIS!

It should be noted that you only need to enable Support Abilities using magic stones. Action Abilities are functional if the ability has been learned, or as long as the proper items are equipped.

LEARNING ABILITIES

In general, you must equip items to learn abilities. Most items hold special powers that help draw out a character's inborn abilities. Select Equip in the Main Menu to check which abilities a character can learn from items. The abilities that a character is incapable of learning from the item are grayed out.

You can use action and support abilities as soon as you equip the item. However, you can't use them if the item is removed or replaced with another. To use abilities without equipping items, the character must learn them by gaining enough AP (Ability Points) for each ability. You earn AP by winning battles.

Each ability has an AP Gauge. This shows how many AP have been earned toward permanently learning the ability. When the ability is being learned, a green bar fills the gauge to a certain point and a ratio indicates exactly how many points have been gained toward learning that ability. If the gauge appears in red with three stars, then the character has gained enough AP to use the ability without equipping an item.

You can press the X button while in the Status Menu to view all of the abilities that a character has learned or is learning. Continue to press the X button to page through the abilities.

 KEYWORD:
SUPPTA2

ABILITIES

More extensive coverage of Support and Action abilities is available at PlayOnline.

The amount of AP to learn each ability is different. The same item that teaches one character an ability may not teach all other characters the same ability. In most cases, the other character must equip a different type of item such as an Add-on to learn the ability. Also, one character may learn an ability for 30 AP, whereas another character may need 50 AP to learn the same ability. It all depends on the affinities of the character and the ability's purpose in the game.

WEAPONS

Each character has a weapon equipped at all times. Not only is the weapon a way of inflicting physical damage, but it also determines the spells or skills the character is capable of learning.

Some weapons can inflict status effects on enemies if the Add Status ability is equipped. The enemy's Defense reduces your chance to inflict the status effect, however.

The following information provides a key to the tables in this section.

NOTE	DEFINITION
Buy	Cost to purchase at a shop.
Sell	Resale value.
Attack Power	Strength of weapon.
Notes	Description of weapon.
Add ST	Status Effect inflicted by weapon when Add Status ability is effective.
Elem-Atk	Special elemental property of attack.
Elem-Def	Special defense against elemental attacks.
Abilities	Skills that you can learn from a weapon.
(##)	AP required to learn skill or ability.
A	Action ability usable during combat.
S	Support ability to be equipped.

DON'T FORGET...

Some items may not be available at all points during the game.

TETRA MASTER

The official name of the card game is Tetra Master. Many people all over the world play Tetra Master. The only way to find out who plays is by challenging them. Tetra Master players never back down from a challenge. To challenge people, walk up to them and press the Square button. If you challenge a person who isn't a player, he or she will probably just talk to you.

You need to know how to play the card game to finish FINAL FANTASY IX, since you must compete and become a finalist in the Treno Card Tournament event. You can find cards in hidden treasure chests throughout the game, and you receive them after defeating monsters. Not all monsters will yield their own card after a battle; some monsters drop the card of another monster after a battle.

CARD BASICS

Describing Tetra Master is actually more complicated than playing it! When the card game begins, you must select five cards to play. You can't play the game unless you have at least five cards. You should choose cards based on the number of arrows they have, and by the statistics shown on the card. Both features of cards are explained later.

After selecting five cards, a 4x4 grid appears. Anywhere from 0 to 6 tiles on the game table can be blocked off, preventing you and your opponent from placing a card there. A coin toss determines whether you or your opponent goes first.

CARD STATISTICS

Each card has a combination of four letters and numbers on it. These numbers and letters display the strength of the card, and determine which card wins in a card battle.

- ‡ The first number is the card's attack power in hexadecimal, from 0 to E, with E being the highest.
- ‡ The second statistic is the card's attack type. P is Physical, M is Magical, X attacks the lowest defense number, and A attacks the lowest number on the card.
- ‡ The third number is the card's physical defense in hexadecimal. The fourth number is the card's magical defense in hexadecimal.

When two cards battle, the newly-placed card attacks using the attack number (the first stat on the card) and the attack type (the second stat on the card). The newly-placed card's attack number is compared to the corresponding defense number on the enemy card. The card with the highest number usually wins, although there is a small chance that a weaker card can still beat a stronger card.

You can raise the statistics on some cards by playing with the same cards over and over and winning numerous Tetra Master games with them.

CARD GAME BASICS

Tetra Master can be a bit tricky to learn. If you need some help, PlayOnline has it covered.

CARD INVENTORY

You can view your catalog of cards at any time by selecting the Card option from the Main Menu. You can never carry more than 100 cards. You should always discard weaker cards in the hopes of finding stronger or "rare" cards. A weaker card is one that has few arrows and low stats.

If you end up with more than 100 cards after a game of cards, you must throw away cards of your choice until you have 100. If you want to collect all 100 unique cards, you can only carry one of each card.

RARE CARDS

There are some very rare cards you can only obtain by searching certain areas of the game. If you pass up these opportunities, then you may not be able to collect all 100 cards.

You can find rare cards in other ways, such as by uncovering treasure chests during the Chocograph side quest.

There are also rare cards to obtain for various weapons, towns, airships, for most of the Eidolons, and for several of the Boss monsters and the rare items.

COLLECTOR'S RANK

As you collect cards, you gain prestige as a Tetra Master player. This is measured by your Collector's Rank, a number between 0-1700 that is viewable in the Card menu.

To get the maximum number of collector's points, you must collect or capture one of every card type, and each card must have a unique arrow arrangement. You must also play with each card enough times until they all level up to attack type A.

CARD LISTING

The following section summarizes all of the cards in Tetra Master. For convenience, we've listed them by the columns in which they appear on the card sub-screen.

When Baku leaps at his crew in a Dragon mask, you will command a party of four characters. Order each of them to attack, with the exception of Cinna. Make Cinna steal from Baku instead.

A LITTLE LOST...

The young black mage named Vivi seems a little lost in Alexandria. You'll need a few tips to get your bearings, and you can greatly boost your inventory in no time at all by searching every nook and cranny.

This town is full of all kinds of items and extra Gil, so explore the area fully and leave no stone unturned. (Refer to the Items list at the beginning of this section for a complete list of the items available in this area.) Make sure you scour the landscape, and don't forget to go indoors to visit the locals. There may be a few items to pick up there as well.

When you're done exploring, travel back the way Vivi came into Memorial Square. Search around the outer perimeter to find a Zombie Card, a Lizard Man Card, and a Sahagin Card. Return to Vivi's path and continue upward through the streets.

In the areas where the nobles are marching off, search in the grass close to the screen to uncover a Goblin Card. Then duck inside the Morning Star Bar and search for a Flan Card and some additional stuff for your inventory.

Continuing into the next section, talk to Mick about Vivi's Ticket. Also, pay a visit to Doug's Item Shop. You can purchase items for your inventory if Vivi's stock isn't up to par.

The ticket booth is in the center of Alexandria's Main Square. This is where Vivi learns that his ticket is a fake. The Ticketmaster feels bad and gives Vivi Goblin, Fang, and Skeleton Cards in return. You also learn about a person named "Alleyway Jack," who knows a great deal about cards.

The building on the far right side of Alexandria Square is a Synthesist. You can't create any new weapons at this time but make sure you thoroughly search the area before leaving. The weapons smiths are in the connecting room, but they don't seem to be selling to Vivi either.

MISCHIEF AFOOT

While running down the alley, Vivi suddenly trips and falls causing a nearby handyman to quit for the day. When the rat-boy Puck offers to get Vivi in to see the show, you have a choice of accompanying him as his "slave" or refusing him. If you feel that you've explored the town enough and have found all of the items, accept his offer. Once you agree to be his slave, Puck then steals the ladder, and leads Vivi to an old bell tower.

MUGGER, ...OR CARD GURU?!

Don't remain in the alley too long after Puck runs off; you could get mugged and lose some Gil. However, if you speak to this person before he mugs you, you'll find that you've discovered "Alleyway Jack"! A brief tutorial follows, where the card game "Tetra Master" is explained. This game is also explored in the Tetra Master section of this book. Alleyway Jack also lets you play him, and your chances to defeat him and gain a strong card are extremely good.

As you head for the bell tower, make sure you go inside each area and explore. You don't want to pass up any extra items or Gil and you'll definitely find some in this area.

Inside the bell tower, Puck and Vivi bump into the friendly moogles named Kupo and Stiltzkin. The moogles found throughout the game enable you to save your game or use Tents to rest up and restore your HP and MP. Kupo also has a letter that needs to be delivered to Monty. Offer to deliver letters for the Mognet, and purchase items from Stiltzkin whenever he appears. After exploring the area, join Puck at the top of the tower.

Puck leads Vivi across the rooftops of Alexandria. Don't rush to catch up, but instead take the time to search the chimneys off the path to find a few stashes of Gil. As Vivi and Puck make it inside the castle, the play begins!

PERFORMANCE OF A LIFETIME

During Tantalus' performance, Zidane and the gang fight Baku and the others. They come equipped with Special Effects (SFX) to liven up the event, although these amazing pyrotechnics cause no damage. Eliminate the two guards immediately. Baku proves to be a bit tougher, though.

Next up, Blank and Zidane begin a choreographed stage fight. You must follow Blank's lead by pushing the buttons he tells you to push—very quickly. Accuracy and speed are both factors in how well things go.

After the stage fight, the audience approval is tallied. The number of nobles impressed by the stage fight dictates whether or not the Queen is impressed as well. Luckily, you can try this event over and over until you are satisfied with your score. It's definitely a good idea to do your best on your first try though.

RISING FROM THE WRECKAGE

The Prima Vista crash-lands in a rather nasty region called Evil Forest. After Zidane rejoins the troupe, you can't re-enter the ship, so make sure you search everywhere outside the ship. Because of the violent nature of the wreck, some items may have been thrown outside. Now it's time to search for the missing characters by equipping Zidane with the best armor pieces available.

ATE, Kupol!

Mosco the moogles introduces the concept of the "Active Time Event." This is a new feature in the FINAL FANTASY® series, whereby you view scenes occurring in other locales involving characters that are not currently in your party. When the words "ACTIVE TIME EVENT" flash in the bottom-left corner of the screen, press the SELECT button to watch the event(s). If there is more than one ATE, you can view them in whatever order you want. Some ATEs are optional, as indicated by flashing blue words, but you must view some ATEs to advance the game.

THE DANGEROUS WOODS

When you're ready to search the Evil Forest, head through the hollow tree. Zidane will most likely encounter some Fangs and Goblins on his own, but they won't pose much of a threat to the powerful Zidane. If your inventory is rather thin, make sure you steal from each enemy.

Not far into the woods, Zidane finds Vivi and Steiner watching as Garnet gets attacked by some strange forest monster. The two rivals will team up to take on the wretched plant.

Back onboard the wrecked Prima Vista, Zidane decides to go looking for the Princess. However, Baku won't let Zidane go that easily. After the captain finishes lecturing, scour the bridge of the ship looking for items.

After Blank emerges from Vivi's room, go in and speak to the mage. Outside Vivi's room, Zidane must decide whether to quit Tantalus and go searching for Garnet. Whichever option you choose, Zidane will search for her, but it's fun to see how the two different choices affect the dialogue.

Go down into the hold into the meeting room, where Baku will accept Zidane's dismissal. However, Zidane must face Baku in one-on-one combat before he can leave!

AN UNEASY ALLIANCE

Now that Zidane is free to go, return to the room in which Steiner is being held. Steiner joins your party, albeit hesitantly. Then make sure you fully equip Steiner with good items that will let him learn some abilities. Also, make sure he has a powerful weapon. If you were adept at stealing during the Baku Boss fight, you will have a nice addition to add to Steiner's arsenal.

When Vivi joins your party, equip the mage with a Leather Wrist and a Silk Shirt if you have them. By doing so, Vivi can add to his somewhat thin magic casting abilities. On your way out of the hold, Blank gives Zidane Blank's Medicine to use on the Princess when you rescue her. Before leaving, however, make sure you thoroughly search the room for any spare items.

If your inventory is low, make a few purchases from Cinna, but otherwise make sure you save your game before traveling through the forest.

Eventually, the party enters a small clearing where a crystal-clear pond will fully restore HP and MP. Also, Monty the moogles is hiding in a hollow tree stump nearby, so give him the letter from Kupo and save your game if desired.

THE NORTH GATE

The eastern side of the North Gate is to the far west of the Ice Cavern's entrance. Upon entering the area, approach the door and an icon should appear over Zidane's head.

You can select from the following options: "Listen close/Call out to someone inside/Buy some medicine from her." Also, make sure you explore the area completely.

It's important to visit all the gates in the world so you can pick up free items, even if there's not much going on there.

Great dangers lurk within this winter wonderland. Follow the frozen path upward into an area with a fork in the path.

In the next area, you'll notice an icy wall that looks different than the others. There are several locations like this in the Ice Cavern, so keep your eyes peeled at all times.

MONSTERS OF THE ICE

All of the creatures in the Ice Cavern are extremely sensitive to fire. Use Vivi's Fire spell and Steiner's Fire SWD MAG to quicken battles before your enemies gain the upper hand. The monsters have powerful abilities that drastically reduce your characters' HP and can even put them to sleep. They won't hesitate to use these abilities if you're not swift and merciless in your battles.

In the next chamber, explore everything and make sure you pick up all of the items in the treasure chests. When you're finished exploring, follow the path into the next area.

SUSPICIOUS ACTIVITY

After spending the night at the Dali Inn, Zidane wakes up to find that everyone else has wandered off. Explore the room for some items, and then head out to find everyone.

Although Dali is rather small, there are all kinds of different places to visit. Make sure you stock up on items at the shops, and search everywhere for other hidden items or useful bits of information.

As you explore the town, you come to realize that something isn't quite right in this town. Dagger's at Eve's shop now; talk to her and return to the Inn after the encounter.

Return to the Inn to speak with Dagger again. Now it's time to look for the missing Vivi. Leave the Inn and head toward the windmill, where you discover that Vivi is underground. Enter the windmill and open the hatch to go down below.

DARK BUSINESS

Take the lift down and proceed up the passage until Zidane and Dagger overhear two men talking about Vivi. As they lead the little mage off, search everywhere because there are plenty of things to add to your inventory.

Follow Vivi's captors through a corridor, and then search the barrel to speak with Kumop the moogles. Take a moment to save your game, because things are going to get a little tricky ahead!

In the room with a strange machine, Dagger and Zidane discover that Vivi has been stored in a coffin-like box. Before continuing, go ahead and enter the door to the top.

THE CASTLE CITY

After disembarking the Cargo Airship, follow Minister Artania through the castle's lobby to the lift. Pay close attention to Artania, so you can grasp something about the layout of this awesome city. You're then escorted into the chambers of Regent Cid.

While lunch is served, Zidane heads into the Industrial District and runs into Freya, an old comrade in arms hailing from the nearby kingdom of Burmecia.

Later, Zidane wakes up the next day at the Business District Inn. Head into the next room to speak to the moogles Moodon, who has a letter from Ruby. Also, make sure you explore the Inn thoroughly. Maybe one of the Inn's former guests may have lost something.

Although Zidane's goal is to head to the Theater District to visit the Tantalus hideout, there are some great benefits in fully searching the rest of the city beforehand. A brief description of those areas is detailed in the following section.

Directly across from the Inn is the air cab terminal, where cars wait to take you to Lindblum Castle, the Industrial District, or the Theater District. At the bottom of the screen is the Hunter's Gate, but if you head the other way down the street, past the Inn and the air cab terminal, you'll reach the market square.

Positioned around the market are several vendors, including an action figure stand. The door next to Ivan's Fish Shack leads upstairs into Card Freak Gon's house. He's very sharp, so only take him on if you've been playing the card game rather regularly up to this point. Take a moment to check out the various volumes on his bookshelves. Different ones are on display at different points in the game.

KEYWORD:

The church is down the street beyond Gon's house. Don't forget to explore the area before returning to the market square. Upon returning to the market square, take the right-hand street to keep exploring.

The second street from the market square leads to a mall with a large sundial fountain. On the right side is the Dragoos Armory, where you can buy a variety of new and familiar weapons, armor, and accessories. (For a complete inventory list, see the end of this section.) The store at the top of the mall is Alice's Item Shop, where Vivi acquires a Kupo Nut.

THE INDUSTRIAL DISTRICT

This smaller area of Lindblum is where most of the city's airship engineers dwell. Some businesses once existed here, but they all pulled out and moved into the more lucrative Business District, such as Dragoos' Shop.

There are various items scattered about the area, so before you go too far, make sure you scour the area. Don't forget to speak to Marolo, who's behind the statue of Cid VIII. This guy enjoys to debate, so take part in the fun and take his side for now to make him happy.

Head up the stairs into the next section, where you'll come across Bobo's familiar dive. There's a house in the back of this neighborhood, wherein Ludruff the engineer is working on a prototype steam engine. There's not much else to do in the Industrial District; it's really just a cozy neighborhood. Return to the air cab and ride to the Theater District now.

THE THEATER DISTRICT

There's a boy in the Theater District named Tim who knows that most of the people in the Theater District play cards. So, brush the dust off your deck and challenge a few folks, because there are some rare cards to win.

Continue down the steps to a building marked with a clock. This is the Tantalus troupe's playhouse, but no one's home. Zidane will park it and wait for a bit. After resting up, Zidane has a brief discussion with the kids Lucella and Bunce, who suggest that he search for the princess. Now that we know where she is, that's not too much of a problem. Since you're familiar with Tantalus, ransack the place for items before leaving. Leave the Tantalus playhouse and head down the steps.

DAGGER IN DESPAIR

Take an air cab to Lindblum Castle. In the lobby, take the red-carpeted stairs up to the right, and then go through the doorway on the balcony to reach the guest room where Dagger was seen previously. This is where Zidane reunites with "Rusty," who's throwing another fit about the princess. Once Steiner leaves, thoroughly search the room on the upper balcony.

As you return to the lobby, Zidane hears Dagger's sweet and melancholy voice. However, the guard at the lift isn't letting a miscreant like Zidane get past. Go back up the steps toward the guest room, but then head down the next set of steps and wake up the sleeping soldier. Zidane takes the guard out of sight and pounds him, taking the uniform as a disguise. Now return to the lobby, and you'll have no problem getting past the guard. Operate the control on the left side of the lift to reach the Upper Level.

Zidane switches back to street clothes on the ride up, so that Dagger will immediately recognize him. However, you must stay away from the guards as well to avoid detection. Take the stairs to the left up through an engine room to the top of the tower.

There's a telescope nearby, and while looking through it you can spot six locations before the scene moves on (a Marshland, the Aerbis Mountains, South Gate, the mountain between Lindblum and Alexandria, the Chocobo Forest, and the Ceebell River). Viewing them marks them on the World Map for later use.

THE FESTIVAL OF THE HUNT

Inside the guest room, the rules of the festival are explained. You receive points for each monster killed within the time limit. As you fight, your score is displayed in the bottom-right corner of the screen. The top score and whom it belongs to is displayed on top.

The winner of the Festival of the Hunt receives the Master Hunter award. Each character also specifies an additional prize that they want: if Vivi wins, you receive a Theater Ship Card; if Freya wins, you get a Coral Ring; and if Zidane wins, you'll get 5000 Gil.

To begin the contest, equip Zidane with the strongest weapon and armor available. Also, equip the Beast Killer ability to help. Then take the air cab to the Theater District.

GRAVE MESSENGER

Following the Festival, the Master Hunter trophy is awarded to one of the three heroes who participated. In addition, they receive the prize of their choice. The celebration is aborted, however, when a wounded soldier from Burmecia drops dead after delivering a shocking message. Afterward, Dagger and Steiner flee from Lindblum, leaving Zidane and Vivi to go with Freya to Burmecia. Make sure your party is completely stocked up before leaving.

When your crew is ready to resume the adventure, take the Lindblum Castle lift to the lower level. The left trolley goes only to the Dragon's Gate, from which you need to depart, but the right trolley takes you to the Serpent's Gate first. Then you can go straight from there to the Dragon's Gate.

At this exit, you'll meet Moonte the moogle, who just received a letter from Stiltzkin. It's recommended that you save your game before leaving.

There's also a Merchant nearby, who sells items for decent prices.

THE FLATLANDS

Leaving from the Dragon's Gate, your main destination is a cavern in the mountains directly to the north called Gizamaluke's Grotto. The world is a bit foggier throughout the plains, making overland travel difficult.

Visiting a few other areas will make your travel across the plains easier as well. Between Dragon's Gate and the Grotto is Qu's Marsh, where you can recruit a new character to strengthen your party. The other area of extreme interest is the Chocobo's Forest, where you will gain the ability to call a Chocobo. Riding a Chocobo prevents random battles from occurring while travelling on the World Map.

As with the previous wide-open area, you should spend some time fighting lots of enemies in random battles, leveling up and learning Abilities from items before replacing them with better ones. It's best to wander and fight in the area close to the South Gate's south end.

You can return here as often as you like to restore your party after several hard and draining battles. With this option available, you can continue to level up without having to use a lot of valuable Potions or Tents. Don't forget to explore the area near the spring to find some useful items.

INTRODUCING THE QU'S

The marsh area should be marked on your Continental Map if you noted it using the telescope in Lindblum. After crossing the planks into the marsh, you should run across the moogles' tutors. You can review or catch up on any tutorials you skipped or didn't understand at this point.

Next, proceed into the high grass. You'll lose sight of Zidane completely, but just hold up on the directional button to get through. Regardless of where you enter the tall grass, you should arrive at a pond area where a jolly creature called a Qu is trying to catch frogs.

S/he isn't having much luck, so run around the area and press the X button to catch a frog. Then speak to the Qu to learn that its name is Quina. Another creature named Quale emerges, and escorts everyone back to its hut. Here you are offered the option of having Quina join your party. It's a definite benefit to have four party members at a time.

Quina has the ability to "Eat" enemies and learn their special powers. This will come in quite handy in more than a few Boss fights.

Any time you return to the pond area, Quina will want to catch frogs. The number of frogs Quina catches is cumulative, so even if you catch some frogs and then leave the marsh, the number you caught before is remembered. The number of frogs Quina catches determines the items s/he receives from the marsh master.

QUINA & "FROG DROP"

The number of frogs s/he catches determines how much damage the "Frog Drop" attack causes. More on frog catching is detailed at PlayOnline.

ASK NOT FOR WHOM THE BELL TOLLS...

The mountain underpass to Burmecia, called Gizamaluke's Grotto, has already been laid to waste. As Freya recoils from the atrocities in evidence, run inside the Grotto and head to the right. A Burmecian soldier hands you a Gizamaluke Bell before passing on.

Go to the door at the back and ring the bell to unlock it. The bell will shatter upon use, meaning you must find another bell to use on the next door.

Inside the next large cavern, Thorn and Zorn unleash a set of Black Mages on your party. These creatures use powerful magic, mostly aimed at Vivi. Protect the little fellow by having a character such as Quina use Potions on him.

After the first battle, cross under the bridge and attack the next Black Mage. Upon completion of this fight, you receive another Gizamaluke Bell. Run up the steps at the rear, and use the bell on the left door. This path leads around to another wounded soldier. Pick up a Bronze Vest along the way, and then tend to the wounded man to get another bell.

Return to the main area and use the bell on the lower-right door. A staircase encircles the next area. You may encounter a tough monster called a Lamia that casts Might every round to increase its attack power. Dispose of these things quickly, and have Quina eat it if possible to learn the Lv3 Def-less ability. As you ascend the stairs, make sure you look closely for any wastefully dropped items on the path.

These stairs round into the central area in which a large bell has fallen, trapping the moogles Moguta. His bride, Mogmi, sniffs out the Kupo Nut on Vivi, and asks to have it. Give it to her and Moguta will summon super strength to free himself. The couple then runs into the right-hand room. Take the Gizamaluke Bell from the treasure chest, and then follow them inside.

Talk to Mogmi to save your game or use a Tent, which isn't a bad idea right now because you're about to enter a major Boss fight. She also has a letter from Moodon.

If you climb up the vine, you'll enter a mountain plain area where the monsters (Grand Dragons) are way too tough to fight at this point in the game. So avoid climbing the vine, and talk to Moguta instead. Tell him you love Kupo Nuts too, and when you're returning to the bell room he'll give you the Holy Bell hidden in a statue.

Run back around the overturned bell and unlock the other bell door in the room. Beyond here, the group enters the actual grotto chamber, where fallen Burmecian soldiers warn that something is wrong with Master Gizamaluke. The warning comes too late, however, as a large and terrifying shape slithers out of an aqueduct and challenges the party to a tough battle.

The secret is that Dagger is hidden in the bag! Making it inside is easy, but now Steiner must find a spot to set the Princess free. A nearby alleyway seems ideal, but you must convince the people loitering there to move.

You can either remain silent or say that you're here to work. Tell him that you're here to work, and then move to the far left to speak to the Worker. It seems the Worker is actually slacking off, and is naive enough to admit it to Steiner. Return to the Earnest Young Man and inform the worker, and the Earnest young man will go scold him.

This clears the alley of witnesses, but the Short Guard stops Steiner dead in his tracks. It seems that they forgot to give Steiner a Gate Pass upon his entry. Now that you have it, you can access any of the gates in the world at any time.

In the alleyway, Dagger gets out of the pickle bag and takes over. The cable car to the summit is in the next area, and won't depart until you're ready to board.

Before boarding the cable car, save your game by talking to Grimo the moogles. It's important that you take this opportunity to equip Dagger with the Multina Racket, and make sure that Steiner has the best equipment possible too. A Boss fight will suddenly occur during the trip, so make sure you equip Steiner and Dagger at the Summit Station.

CITY OF PERPETUAL RAIN

The rainy Burmecian Kingdom stands in ruins, the populace having fled in fear of the Black Mage Army. The dead or dying litter the streets, with nothing to offer but their eternal silence. Quickly move the group through the rainy area toward the back of the kingdom, searching for items along the way. Random encounters will be numerous and frequent, so be quick to keep your party from getting worn out before the finish.

Proceed through the arch at the back. Zorn and Thorn are just steps ahead of you it seems. Once again, your group gets attacked by Black Mages, so hit them with each character's strongest attacks. When the jester twins retreat, head up the stairs to the left door.

In the next area, there are numerous treasure chests. However, some are filled with items, while others contain a Mimic enemy. You can avoid these fights by not encountering the chests, but you receive Ethers for defeating them. During the fights, make sure you kill the Magic Vice it calls before it steals any of your inventory.

Proceed past the locked bell door to the western foyer. As you run toward the treasure chest on the left, a section of balcony drops below, bridging a gap.

Run back through the other foyer and go outside. Cross under the balconies to the right-hand door. Continue up the stairs and head through the doorway on the second floor balcony.

Angle your way through the next room and hop balconies to the bedroom. A dying Burmecian soldier points out that you can find the Protection Bell by searching behind the bed. With the bell in hand, return to the bell door on the third level, and ring it to enter.

Running up a magnificent staircase, the party encounters fleeing soldiers who mistake Vivi for the enemy. Freya smooths things over with Burmecian Soldier Dan so that you can proceed up the stairs to the temple area.

Go in the central bottom door to rescue some Burmecians who invite you to visit them in Lind-blum. Keep that in mind for later in the game. Then exit and take the right stairs, crossing the balcony in front to the left doorway.

In the courtyard under the royal castle, there are doors to the left and right. Enter the left one first, where Freya will claim the Mythril Spear held by the statue. Equip this weapon immediately, so Freya can cast Regen on all the party members at once. The right-hand door from the courtyard leads to a similar treasure room, where you can find a Lightning Staff for Vivi in the chest behind Atla the Mooglee. Atla will let you use a Tent and Save (both are recommended), and he sells a variety of good items too in a new feature called Mogshop. (A complete inventory is listed at the end of this section.)

MORE LETTERS FOR MOGNET

If you have a letter to give Atla from Mogki, then the mooglee will give you a Kupo Nut. Atla also needs you to deliver a letter to Monev.

THE EVIL REVEALED

On the outside of the castle walls, Zidane has some choices about approaching Freya. Choose to leave her alone. The Dragon Knight then leaps up to the top of the castle walls, and leads the heroes inside. There, Zidane and Freya overhear a conversation between the Queen and a mysterious new villain. When a Burmecian soldier foolishly risks his life, Freya and Zidane intervene. As the Queen escapes, the superhuman General Beatrix threatens to end the adventures of our heroes.

MOUNTAIN RENDEZVOUS

Summit Station is a good place to keep playing while you take a deep breath and relax after all the recent excitement. The Cable Car Enthusiast will tell you what this mode of travel is all about. You'll have to wait for the car going to Alexandria to arrive. Head across the walkway into the station.

The rest area is full of people, so make sure you talk to them. It's always important to talk to everyone, because you never know what you might learn or find. When you're done exploring, speak to the Attendant to get the game rolling again. Two voices heard from outside should coax you into peeking out to see what's going on.

Entering the station from the Alexandria train are the recognizable bandits, Cinna and Marcus. Follow them into the station, where Steiner is giving them some grief. You must tell Steiner to be silent before you can fully speak with the two Tantalus members. When the car to Alexandria arrives, the Princess should follow Marcus onboard.

QUAN'S DWELLING

This cavern is behind a long and dangerous stretch of forest to the southeast of Treno. You'll encounter some creatures called Mandragoras along the way, and you should fight them with everything you've got. This cave holds a few items and a few points of interest, and it's a great resting spot for parties seeking to level up in the surrounding area.

Explore the area thoroughly, looking for items. Take note of the spring pond, which you can use to restore HP and MP. While leveling up by fighting monsters outside, you can return here and refresh your party as often as you like.

Return to the top portion and enter the darker cave at the back. Climb the ladder, and check the wall on the right to find a note about Vivi. Out on the ledge overlooking the ocean, a clock seems to hold some interest for Dagger but contains no items... for now, anyway.

THE CITY OF NOBLES

Just inside the gates, the trio is understandably dazzled by the spectacle of Treno. Dagger and Marcus then run off, leaving Steiner to fend for himself. A series of ATEs become available immediately, and you should watch them all. During the scene entitled "Treno Tradition," Dagger loses 1000 Gil from a pickpocket.

As Steiner, proceed down the left-hand stairs after the Princess. Proceed across the long bridge to the tower on the far left. Unfortunately, the doors are locked. Now return to the site where Dagger was robbed, and head down the ramp to the ground level. The nobles of Treno will proudly snub Steiner, so head to the door just above the Café. Along the carpeted hall, Steiner meets the four-armed man that lifted Dagger's Gil. There's a Synthesis Shop at the far end of the open corridor; the inventory of forgeable items appears at the end of this section.

STELLAZZIO COLLECTOR

The Queen of Treno accepts the Stellazzios you've been collecting. To find her, exit the red-carpeted hallway and continue upward.

FUN AND GAMES IN TRENO

If Steiner exits below the Café Carta, he will discover the Card Stadium. There's not an event going on right now, but the Usher will explain more about the card game than has been revealed thus far. You can challenge the boy and his father nearby, but they're strong players.

Continuing to the right past the Card Stadium, you pass the Weapons and Armor Shop. Also, Mogrich the moogles is trying not to get eaten by a dog; talk to her, because she may have a letter from Stiltzkin. There's a monster in the pit under the grate that serves as a floor. If you're feeling confident, you can request to fight the monster. However, this is only recommended for characters who go properly prepared into battle. A full inventory of items sold in this area appears at the end of this section.

The entrance to the Treno Auction is above the Weapons Shop. Steiner finally catches up to Dagger here, and she resumes control of the party. You can return to Treno later and bid on rare items that are auctioned here, but for now, Dagger is haunted by the appearance of a familiar figure... You don't have to bid on items, but some of the items up for auction can be sold or given to certain individuals in exchange for Gil or other items.

THE QUEST FOR THE SUPERSOFT!

Head down past the Weapons Shop, where you'll find the poorer part of Treno. Descend the ladder on the left to find another Item Shop. The shop's inventory is detailed at the end of this section.

You can pay the grouchy Innkeeper 100 Gil to stay the night, if Dagger and "Rusty" are in poor spirits. You'll be fighting a few enemies shortly, so it's not a bad idea to rest up. At the bottom of the Inn's stairs, Marcus has been patiently waiting for Dagger's arrival. The Tantalus troupe is ready to steal the rare Supersoft item, needed to revive their petrified comrade.

When you're ready, you must ignore a whining Steiner while walking through a series of platforms until Dagger meets Baku face to face. The head thief boats everyone to a location where you can steal the rare Supersoft.

During the attempted robbery, Dagger has a chance encounter with her old teacher, Doctor Tot. The Doc offers to get the Supersoft for the Princess, and says to meet him at the locked tower to the left of the entrance of Treno. After Tantalus returns to the Treno Inn, head back to the tower and the door will now be open.

After Tot allows Marcus to have the Supersoft, have Dagger talk to the Doctor some more and a flashback will occur. Then climb up the ladders and go down the open manhole into the Gargan Roo.

THE SANDY TREEHOUSE

The story finally returns to Zidane's party, where they were last seen languishing in Burmecia. Upon leaving the fallen kingdom, head west to the whirling sandstorm protecting Cleyra. Most of the citizens from Burmecia have fled the area, so you can visit there now. However, the trip won't be easy as you attempt to climb up the massive trunk full of flooding sand, swirling traps, and dangerous monsters. Reorganize your party so that everyone has the best equipment possible.

PlayOnline.com

KEYWORD:
KUPNUT1

SPECIAL ITEM

Remember the significance of Gizamaluke's Grotto and Kupo Nuts? If not, check out PlayOnline for the details.

Upon entering the sandstorm, the characters uncover the path leading up the trunk. At the entrance, pull the lever to the right to open the seal. Just inside, head to the right and then continue up the path to a sand-filled room. There are some partially hidden chests in here, so don't leave until you've collected everything. The main reason to get these items now is because you're about to flood this room with sand, and you won't be able to get all of the items afterward.

TRUNK ENEMY NOTES

You're bound to encounter the Dragonflies and the Sand Golems while navigating the Trunk. You can defeat the Dragonflies if Vivi casts Blizzard on them. To eliminate the Sand Golem, attack it until it melts and then attack the red core. If you attack the Sand Golem's core at any other time, it responds with a brutal physical counterattack. The red center is extremely weak against Ice spells, so equip the Ice Staff on Vivi.

DISC TWO

GARGAN ROO/CLEYRA'S TRUNK

Run up the slope outside the tree, all the way to the top. Now put Zidane's hand into the hole just below the last chest and trigger the switch; this causes sand to pour into the room below. This cuts off the lower access, so return to the outside of the tree and climb the vines into the large ornate entrance.

Cross the sand-flooded room to the opposite hole, and search for a weapon at the base of a tall slope. You'll find Money the moogle on the midlevel. You may have a letter for Money from Atla. Money will give you another Kupo Nut for delivery of the letter!

Continue up the rise and take the left stairs in the next area. Then cross a plank bridge into a cavern with three caves at the back. Going through the center tunnel takes you to the center portion of the back of the cave. Now head through the cave in the very center of the back three.

Head through the cave in the very back. Press the switch on the pulley at the end of this path to make a chest available in another area. Upon doing this, return to the main cavern and exit through the far-left passage.

Veer up the right branch. Return to the path and continue to the left, where Zidane nearly runs into a whirling sink hole. If he gets caught in one of these holes, continuously press the X button to avoid being sucked in. At the end of the path, there's a ladder leading up to the settlement.

UNDERSTANDING THE SINK HOLES

When you're caught in a sink hole mashing the X button to get out, press the directional buttons or analog stick in the direction opposite the target area where you want to land. This ensures that you'll end up where you desire upon leaping from the sink hole. However, if you release the analog stick as soon as Zidane jumps out, you may go right back into the hole! Also, use the directional buttons and walk around the sink holes, don't run! This increases your chances of avoiding the whirling traps.

LIFE AMONGST THE BRANCHES

Upon entering the Cleyra tree settlement, Freya will run off to confer with the King of Burmecia. One of the Oracles offers to take you on a tour of Cleyra. This is a great way to get acquainted with the town. All of the branches are connected by similar rope bridges, and it's difficult to remember which bridge leads to which branch. You must become very familiar with the layout of Cleyra in a short amount of time.

The conclusion of the tour brings Zidane back to the front gate. Return to the front and head up the stairs. Continue up either set of stairs to continue searching for items. Meanwhile, a series of ATEs will show you what kind of mischief your buddies are up to.

CLEYRA INN

There are several items to find in the large area that houses several buildings. In front of the Inn is Dan, the soldier you saved in Burmecia. Although he doesn't treat Vivi very well, Dan will sell you weapons and armor. His inventory is listed at the end of this section.

You will find a depressed Vivi at the Inn. He is inconsolable, so take a moment to thoroughly explore the Inn. It's full of items. When you're done searching, talk to the moogles Mopli, who may have a letter for Zidane from Ruby.

LOOK EVERYWHERE!

For such a small place, the Inn is packed full of goodies. Make sure you explore EVERYWHERE before continuing.

WATERFALLS

Two Burmese soldiers lament the fall of their kingdom near the life-giving falls. Also, Moon Maiden Claire is happy to discuss the magic that keeps the sandstorm in place around the settlement.

THE CLEYRA CATHEDRAL

At the very top of the tree is the Cathedral, wherein the citizens of Cleyra perform their magic ritual to maintain the whirling sandstorm protecting their home. Enter the Cathedral. The guards barring access further into the chapel have a message from Freya to wait for her at the Inn.

The chamber with the sink holes is now dormant following the cessation of the sand storm. This is the first place where the heroes get attacked by Alexandrian Soldiers. The feminine warriors attack in duets, but are extremely easy to overcome.

Proceed down the trunk, taking as few side paths as possible, until the party reaches the plank bridge and suspects a trap. Puck calls the entire party back to the village, where the real battle is currently underway!

CLEYRA SETTLEMENT

KEYWORD:
ITMS-4

SPECIAL ITEM

Need help with the directions, or curious about the items you receive from the survivors? Check out PlayOnline.

At the town's entrance, you must protect the Shrine Maidens from a Black Mage and then a trio of Alexandrian Soldiers. This time, it's a no-holds barred fight where the enemies cast the powerful Blizzara and Fira spells over and over. Then more Black Mages appear, and the party retreats up the stairs. You can win these battles with ease by using straightforward fighting tactics.

To the right of the town's entrance, you can find the moogles Stiltzkin and Mopli. Stiltzkin will have another "value deal" available to you at a low cost, and Mopli will give you a letter intended for Serino. Make sure you save your game at this point.

Up the steps, Zidane encounters the Oracles, who are fleeing from enemies. A decision must be made to either go up the steps or flee to the right. The next couple of decisions you make determine whether or not some of the citizens of Cleyra survive. Each surviving townspeople will thank you by giving you an item.

Outside the Inn, Burmecian Soldier Dan's family is looking for him. Choose a direction and hope for the best. In the meantime, you must fend off a combined Black Mage/Alexandrian Soldier party.

Zidane follows the family to the waterfall. You get to choose which direction you proceed. Another vicious battle ensues, and then the survivors all meet at the overlook area.

After the group sorts things out inside the Cathedral, General Beatrix commits an act of thievery. Follow her out to the lobby, where all the survivors are gathered. Talk to each one to receive a prize for rescuing them. Mopli the moogles is also in the lobby, and would like you to deliver a letter to Serino.

Because you're about to face the warrior who decimated your group previously, this is a good time to save your game. Then prepare your party well and proceed outside to face off against the powerful General once again.

Using the basic principles of momentum, rock the cage to one side, and then power the swing to the other side by rocking in that direction. Marcus will help you learn the timing of rocking the cage by telling you whether you're moving right or wrong.

Once freed, equip Steiner and Marcus with the strongest blades in your inventory. Also, give Steiner a Mythril Vest and equip the Auto-Potion ability. Two or three teams of Alexandrian soldiers will give chase, so you can either try to avoid or fight them.

After your encounter with the soldiers, run to the other side of the balcony and climb up the ladder. When you reach the top of the ladder, you'll probably want to take back your stuff from Marcus, just in case he decides to split...

In the chamber above, Steiner and the rest of the crew are reunited. With a party of Steiner, Vivi, Freya and Zidane, you're ready to take on anything. However, you only have 30 minutes until the Queen's ship arrives. Although this may seem like a lot of time, you'll spend a decent amount of time in conversations, so you must keep moving.

Make sure you stay clear of the female Alexandrian guards to avoid getting into a fight. Luckily for you, the Knights of Pluto will not engage you in combat. Instead, they may provide you hints as to where you can find Dagger.

Exit the left tower and run to the courtyard. Each time you enter an area, the guards on duty will give chase. Enter the castle and fight your way upstairs. Quickly scale the circular stairs, and head through the double doors at the top. Run straight back to the next double doors into the Queen's chamber.

Search the back corner of the area, where the strange candle casts a purple glow. Moving the candle triggers a switch that opens a secret passage. Charge down the steps and wait for the wildly rotating bridge to stop in front of you. Jump when the "!" appears. Hop off on the other side, wait for the bridge to rotate around, and then get on again.

This should deposit you on the platform at the top. Hop back to the right platform and run down the spiraling stairs.

THE TIDE TURNS

Once Zidane convinces Beatrix to protect the Princess, Freya and the ultra-powerful General join forces to battle a Bandersnatch set upon them by the Jesters. Have Beatrix perform her Climhazzard attack to end the battle swiftly. Let's hope she joins the party permanently...

The action cuts back and forth during this pulse-pounding sequence. With Zidane leading, jump across the spinning bridge and run down the steps before another Bandersnatch attacks the group. In the next portion of the pit, Black Mages emerge to do battle.

Near the bottom, the Bandersnatches finally catch up with the group. Fire magic seems to be what ails them most, so roast these overgrown doggies and continue downward. Steiner will then split off to rejoin Freya and Beatrix, who are taking on additional Bandersnatches.

MOSH THE MOOGLE

Once the party gets back down the stairs, make sure you return to the chapel because Mosh the moogles has a letter for you to deliver at this time.

In the meantime, Zidane, Vivi and Dagger board the gargant and head for Treno. However, the big worm that the Princess chased away earlier seems to have evolved and become much more threatening.

THE SPECTER OF RAMUH

As Dagger, Vivi, and Zidane recover from the crash-landing of the gargant, the Eidolon of Ramuh appears and challenges the group to a trial. If you assemble the story correctly, you'll receive a Peridot, which enables Dagger to summon Ramuh in battle.

The group is led by Dagger throughout this event. Following the encounter with Ramuh, Dagger walks into an area where Monty the mooglee waits to record your game. Make sure you give him the letter that you received from Mosh. After doing so, return to the first area, where Ramuh will appear again and recite the 'Hero' part of the story. Now return to where Monty sits and head up the top branch. Ramuh appears in your path and recites the 'Beginning' part.

Continue across the branch, head to the right across a bridge, and then jump down when the "?" appears. Moving to the left causes Ramuh to appear once more, reciting the 'Silence' part of the story. Go around the ramping branch, head toward the chest, and Ramuh should appear in the corner. This time he recites 'Cooperation.'

Head down from that area to the place just below Monty's perch. Now run under the window set into the tree, and Ramuh should appear for the last time just behind it. He now recites 'Human,' the last piece of the story.

To finish the event, you must find Ramuh at the exit from Pinnacle Rocks near the location where you jumped off the branch. He now expects Dagger to assemble the narrative in a coherent manner.

After putting together the pieces of the story, Ramuh reviews the story as you assembled it and asks if you want to correct it. He will point out any errors in assembling the first three parts, and let you try again if need be. When you're satisfied, Ramuh will examine your choice of ending. No matter which ending you choose, Ramuh bestows his abilities upon Dagger in the form of a Peridot to be equipped on Dagger as an Add-on.

THE RAVAGES OF WAR

Lindblum is in shambles. Queen Brahne's attack force has left most of the town in tatters, and the Industrial District is completely wiped out. Move Zidane and Dagger through the Business District. The Alexandrian Soldiers will not attack, and you can speak to them if you want.

The destruction has caused a few items to become scattered in amongst the debris, so explore every aspect of the area before continuing.

Proceeding into the mall area, Minister Artania finds Dagger and Zidane and escorts them to Regent Cid. A plan is formed to find and defeat Kuja on the Outer Continent. You must travel there via a series of underground caverns known as "Fossil Roo."

REMAINS OF THE CITY

Thereafter, a man awaits for you to prepare yourself in the Business District's mall. There are plenty of shops to visit, so check your inventory and determine what you'll need to continue your adventure. A complete inventory appears at the end of this section. When you're ready, return to this man and tell him you're all set to go.

The Lindblum Inn is still standing, and the price is still 100 Gil to rest. Upstairs, Moodon the moogles has an important letter for Zidane from Ruby about recruiting Lowell for her theater in Alexandria. The air cab system will still take you to the Theater District for free, but signs posted indicate that a fare will be implemented by the Queen shortly.

In the Theater District, you can find the actor Lowell just below the Tantalus Theater. If Zidane has read Ruby's letter, then he will convince Lowell to take off for Alexandria.

When you're finished exploring, set off for the Qu's Marsh north of the conquered city, where a rumored excavation site may take you to the Outer Continent.

At the Lindblum Grand Castle's base level, Regent Cid will give your group the World Map to help. The Merchant remains stationed at the Dragon's Gate, selling a combination of items and potions. Moonte the moogles will happily save your game before you head off once more.

HOME IS WHERE THE FROGS ARE

Zidane runs into Quina at the frog pond, griping about the hard trip back from Cleyra. Quina rejoins the party and brings your group back up to four strong, so you may want to re-recruit Quina before doing any leveling up or Ability learning on the surrounding plains. There's also bound to be a new brood of frogs that need catching at the pond.

ENTRANCE TO THE UNDERWORLD

Return to Quale's hut to see if the elder Qu has any knowledge of an excavation site. Quale does give a few sketchy clues, but doesn't know much more than you do. From Quale's hut, exit to the right into the brush. Quina will pick up the scent of more frogs, and takes Zidane straight to the entrance of the excavation site. Enter the tunnel and descend the steps into Fossil Roo, the treacherous underground passage to the Outer Continent.

GUARDIANS OF THE ROO

As you're innocently making your way through the first passage, a gate opens behind the party and the enemy Armodullahan begins pursuit in which you must navigate a gauntlet of swinging pendulums. If Zidane gets struck by a pendulum, the creature might catch up to you. This supernatural creature can withstand an infinite number of battles, has little to steal, and can slay your characters instantly by summoning the visage of Death. Therefore, you don't want to get caught.

The treacherous path you must cross is divided into three sections. You'll have better luck clearing this area without incident if you cross along the upper side of the pendulums in the first area, the lower side in the second, and the upper side again in the last area. Don't be afraid to stop for a moment to keep from getting hit by the pendulums.

However, before you have time to shake the dust from your shanks, the Queen's bounty hunter steps into your path. Intent on taking Dagger's pendant, the desirable femme fatale doesn't care if the Princess cooperates or not. The pendant can be removed from Dagger's corpse as easily as handed over.

ANCIENT PASSAGE

At the bottom of the stone steps, head to the left. There are some wild yellow flowers growing in front of a gigantic tunnel. Pick one and move to the right until a "!" appears. Press the X button to make Zidane raise the flower. This summons an untamed gargant, which carries Zidane to the excavation site.

Run up the stairs from the drop-off point to meet a Treasure Hunter. This fellow is very protective of his digging site, but he'll gladly point you to the way out.

Down the steps to the right, you might bump into everyone's favorite striped moogles, Stiltzkin. He'll gladly sell you some more useful medicines, at his usual markup. Stiltzkin's friend Mogki will let you rest up or save, and has just received a letter from Kuppo. Mogki also sells a variety of potions and medicines, listed for convenience at the end of this section.

THE GARGANT EXPRESS

Getting through Fossil Roo to the Outer Continent requires you to ride back and forth on different gargant paths, using a number of switches to alternate each path.

Start off by heading down to the right from the moogles' position. There are some yellow flowers growing on a platform. Pick one and walk toward the edge until you see a "!" Press the X button to call a gargant.

As you travel on the gargant, you will notice that this path has a divergence that is controlled by Switch 2. On this first trip, the gargant will drop you off at a ledge where you can pull Fairy Earrings out of a treasure chest. Then return to the drop-off point and call a gargant to ride back to the excavation chamber.

Now go through the tunnel past the Treasure Hunter, and call another gargant to take you on the path controlled by Switch 1. From this drop-off point, head to the right out to a platform, where you'll find Switch 1. Flip the switch so that you can travel the second leg of the path. Return to the drop-off point, pick a flower, and move to the center of the cave to call the gargant.

The gargant drops you off at a cavern with two levels. First, climb the steps and follow the top path to a ledge where you'll find an item. Now return to the drop-off point, and follow the lower path through a series of twists and turns to a platform where you'll find Switch 2. Flip this switch, then return to the drop-off point and ride back to Switch 1. Position Switch 1 so that the gargant will now return you to the cave with the moogles and the Treasure Hunter.

Now move to the bottom-right cave and ride the gargant again. This time, you're dropped off in a new area, only to find that another Treasure Hunter is already here.

Take the stairs up to reach a platform where you'll find Switch 4. Flip the switch and head through the right-hand tunnel to call the gargant. This takes you to a platform where you'll find a treasure chest. Ride the gargant back to Switch 4, flip it back to its original position, and ride the gargant again.

This time, you arrive in a chamber where the back wall is covered with vines and a few water spouts. To climb across any part of the wall without getting knocked down by water, you must crawl directly under the spouts. However, you should get knocked down once. You want to reach the cave exit on the upper part of the right-hand wall, so climb the vines on that side of the room to reach it. In summary, just stick to the bottom of the vines.

Inside this cave, another Treasure Hunter has beaten you to the scene once more. He'll let you dig in this area in exchange for a Potion, so take him up on his offer.

When you're done digging, head through the lower-right exit from the dig cavern to find a storage area. You are now ready to leave Fossil Roo. Return to the chamber with the vine wall, and climb up to Switch 3 on the upper-left ledge. Turn the switch to the path marked "Exit." Now climb, or fall, to the bottom of the vine wall and exit the lower cave. Call a gargant and ride out to the final cave of Fossil Roo.

THE WASTE LANDS

The Outer Continent is a series of vast desert islands with a few mountains and a couple of scattered forests with small patches of green land scattered about. The first and most notable landmark is a structure suspended on what looks like two gigantic tree roots. Follow the canyon under this structure, and stick to the cliffs as they curve to the east.

To reach the strange building, you must follow the cliffs as they gradually slope downward to meet the lower land level near the eastern shore. Then you can move west up the long slope toward the suspended structure.

REST UP!

The journey through Fossil Roo probably left your party in bad shape, and the trek across the desert is no picnic either. Don't hesitate to use a Tent when needed and save your game. There are strong enemies in the area that might take advantage if your characters are weak.

The suspended structure is the dwarf village known as Conde Petie. The party is greeted at the door with the boisterous dwarven greeting, "Rally-ho!" Only those who return the greeting can enter the town, and so Zidane is separated from the others by his resistance to do so.

Zidane asks the dwarves if they know of Kuja, and some of the answers are quite hilarious.

From the entrance, head through the left door across the corridor to find the Conde Petie Inn, where 100 Gil is a nice price to rest up and get your crew back in shape.

The stairs leading up from the top of the area lead to the central part of the village, where the locals are joined in marriage. There is a dwarf blocking the exit in the upper-right corner, and you can't get through at this time.

You'll then see Vivi talking to two individuals on the bridge at the bottom of the square, after which he runs off. Follow him into a store, where Zidane spots a Black Mage shopping at the counter. Vivi and Zidane chase the Black Mage out of Conde Petie. The folks at the door know the Black Mages well, and they direct the party to find them in the forest to the southeast.

Before leaving, restock your necessities in Conde Petie's Grocery Store or in the Weapon Shop located behind it. Both stores' inventories are listed at the end of this section. There's a certain creature in the forest who can help with an AP boost. Go to PlayOnline to find out more.

Zidane finds a forked path with a sign in the middle. Read the sign, and then head in the direction "where there are no owls." One of the owls in the trees overhead will fly away. Then it seems that Zidane enters the exact same area. Read the sign at the fork once more, and again head in the direction without any owls. Another owl will leave its perch. Starting to get the idea?

Each time you enter the area, read the sign in the center and head in the direction indicated, even if it means going back the way you just came in. Eventually, you will see a Black Mage emerge and then run back.

After all the owls have left the area, Zidane will follow the Black Mage to what looks like a spot of dead trees in the forest. But this is really a magical cloaking that protects the Black Mage Village.

"PYNTIE-HETS"

The Black Mages are a bit alarmed to see humans entering their village, and they quickly run for cover. Vivi chases after them in his continuing quest for answers. Naturally, Dagger and Quina abandon Zidane to explore the village on their own and to find something good to eat.

You can explore the village before or after following Vivi. To the left of the village entrance is No. 239's Weapon & Armor Shop.

There's a house on the far right side of the village where a couple of Black Mages have taken up raising a baby chocobo. A moogle named Mogryo is stationed outside to save your game if you want, and he would very much like for you to take a letter to Mocchi.

The building behind the Medicine Shop to the left is the Black Cat Synthesis shop. Zidane will find Dagger here, and he helps to smooth out the ruckus she accidentally caused earlier.

As you continue to the left of the Synthesis shop, Vivi dashes past. Talk to the Black Mages at the cemetery to find out what's going on, and then catch up with Vivi at the Inn.

When Dagger enters and suggests that the party rest, take her up on the suggestion. Vivi leaves in the middle of the night to find out more information. In the morning, Zidane joins Dagger and a Black Mage by the village entrance. She's learned that Kuja has been seen in the Northwest of the Outer Continent. PRENUPTIAL ARRANGEMENTS

Return to Conde Petie on the double. Move through town and find Shamis Gatekeeper, the dwarf blocking the exit from the ceremonial area. He's a bit more forthcoming with information this time, and directs Zidane to find the village priest.

You can find Father David Heavenguard wandering the corridor between the entrance and the Inn. Zidane learns from him that only those who are married in the village can go west from here. Dagger walks in and instantly agrees to undergo the ceremony with Zidane.

Following the crazy nuptials and depending on if you chose to watch the first ATE in this section, Vivi and Quina decide to get married too. Is Quina so happy because s/he is married, or because s/he might get to eat Vivi? If you chose the second ATE, they will just sneak past the guards.

THE LAST OF THE SUMMONERS

As the group heads west of Conde Petie through the mountains, a little purple-haired person is chased out of town by the dwarves. The party stumbles across the tiny girl, who had been stealing food from Conde Petie to survive.

Her name is Eiko, and she permanently joins the party. You'll notice right away that she knows absolutely no abilities, but she can summon like Dagger. Eiko can learn Fenrir to start, and then she will pick up the awesome Phoenix summon from a Phoenix Pinion, if you have any in stock. Make sure you equip Eiko with armor and a bracelet right away, so that she's well protected and begins to learn abilities.

Climb up the left slope, and use the vine to reach to the upper ledge. Head to the left until you reach a statue. Take the Blue Stone out of the icon and return to the starting point.

Head to the right until you see another vine to climb. On this lower ledge, head to the left. Another statue nearby holds the Red Stone.

LONELY HEARTS

Zidane and Dagger should return to Eiko's house after visiting the Eidolon Wall. Everyone begins eating, and the group discusses Madain Sari, Eiko's abilities, and summoning. Following dinner, Eiko asks Zidane to bring the pot into the kitchen.

On the back patio, Zidane and Eiko briefly discuss the lifa Tree. Quina and a moogles are fishing off the lower part, so go back inside. As you're leaving the hut, Momatose enters and offers to let you rest.

During the night, Vivi and Zidane discuss the importance of having a past, and share a male bonding ritual. In the morning, Eiko decides to join Zidane's group and go to the lifa Tree. The group then leaves Madain Sari.

Before returning to the Mountain Path, roam the area around Eiko's home, defeating enemies, leveling up and learning abilities. The lifa Tree provides quite a challenge, so it's good to work out and level up. If you need items, return to the lost village and Morrison will greet you at the gate with a full inventory. If the party becomes worn down from excessive battles, you can rest in Madain Sari for free by speaking with Momatose in Eiko's dining room.

ANCIENT TREE OF LIFE

Arriving at the massive tree, which may be Kuja's hangout, the group finds the entrance barred by an Eidolon's force field. You can have Zidane poke or body-slam (just once!) the barrier as much as you like to get your kicks. Eventually, you'll want to ask Eiko to intervene. The little summoner breaks the seal and receives a Ruby.

As you travel along the winding tree root, the party will encounter various plant-based and undead enemies weak against Fire. After slowly descending a steep slope, Zidane stumbles across Mocchi the moogle, whom you might have a letter for. From this point forward, you'll encounter mostly undead enemies.

The group eventually reaches a circular platform with strange markings. Choose for Zidane to stand on it, and he will discover that it is a magical elevator down into the trunk.

Continue downward but make sure you explore every path as you descend to the bottom of the Iifa Tree.

The crew hops on, and the long descent begins. During the ride, you can expect several encounters, but you also have at least one chance to revive characters, equip new items and abilities, or use Potions outside of battle.

CODE OF THE HUNTER

Following the destruction of the Mist monster, Eiko is called back to Madain Sari by her moogle friends. Apparently, someone has stolen her village's precious stone. The whole party agrees to come along.

In her village, follow Eiko back to her house. Move through the back door, and descend the steps to the lower patio. Pass through the gathered moogles, and enter the tiny room under the porch to find Eiko lamenting her lost heirloom. As she runs out, an intruder captures her. Before leaving the house and heading for the Eidolon Wall, search the small room for a couple of items.

Morrison meets the group outside the wall. He will completely restore HP and MP to everyone and remove any lingering status effects. Then peek inside to see that Lani, the irrepressible bounty hunter, holds little Eiko hostage. Back outside the wall, try talking to Mog, and then agree to save Eiko.

The situation takes a sudden U-turn when the Red-haired bandit suddenly thwarts Lani and steals the gem. However, this scabrous wretch isn't here to save the day; he just doesn't agree with Lani's methods. Zidane must now fight the odd stranger in a one-on-one duel.

RETURN OF THE DREAM

When Amarant retreats, Vivi and Eiko return to her house. Follow with Zidane and Dagger, and talk to Momotose in the dining room to rest up. You can find Eiko in the room under the back porch, where she decides to leave Madain Sari and take the Memory Earring with her. Dagger disappears at some point during the scene.

Just outside the house, find a spot where the "?" appears over Zidane's head. He will hear Dagger's song, and follows it to a boat dock. After some intense memory recall, the party gathers at the entrance of town to leave. The Flaming Amarant, not satisfied with the outcome of the duel, agrees to join Zidane in his quest. You must decide who fights in the party and who doesn't. Putting Eiko and Amarant in the party is recommended, along with Vivi.

You'll want to do some leveling up and ability learning in the area surrounding Madain Sari and in the Mountain Path. This is suggested especially for Amarant and Eiko's benefit, because they are the two newest characters and possess almost no abilities. When you're ready, return to the Iifa Tree to see if your archenemy has shown up.

A few enemies will cross your path as you're winding across the tree roots. You won't have to go far, however, as Zidane decides to scale a high area. Once the group reaches Kuja, you can again choose your party. Stick with the previous recommendation.

Although the heroes confront Kuja, the villain has his hands full with bigger problems. He summons the powerful Mistodon enemies to keep you entertained.

A sequence follows in which you must run down a long tree root pursued by Mistodons. Mocchi is partially hidden at the very top of the root, so save your game with him before heading down to the left.

As you descend the root, run at top speed. Mistodons will overtake the party at amazing speeds, so a few battles are unavoidable. However, keep running at all times to avoid fighting any unnecessary battles.

At the bottom of the root, Dagger receives the Aquamarine to teach her the Leviathan summons. However, not even this is enough to stop the demonic Kuja from exacting a terrible revenge.

While a bewildered Dagger is prepared by the castle staff to become queen, Zidane drowns his sorrows at the pub. Eventually, his buddies give up cheering him up and run into Vivi on the street. Now that you're controlling Vivi, there are a number of other things you can do in Alexandria.

Blank and Marcus are waiting for Vivi in the alley where Puck stole the ladder from Dante. You can walk past the two bandits, or you can speak to them. MOVING ALONG...

Head to the left out of the square. Blank and Marcus are hanging out at the entrance to the mini-theater where Ruby now works. They ask Vivi to run interference while they sneak in, but there's no getting past a smart actress! In the meantime, Dagger is trying to get her act together before the coronation. Dr. Tot helps out by giving her an Opal, a Topaz, and an Amethyst. I'm sure the princess can use these items...

Eventually, Baku and the rest of Tantalus get tired of Zidane moping around. When Vivi joins Zidane, you must guide the two toward the castle. Make sure you explore the area thoroughly for items and Gil.

Head upward from the square to the place where a venetian-style boat takes travelers across the moat to the castle. After Freya and Amarant have a muscle-flexing contest, pick up any spare items in the area. Upon boarding the boat, you head to the castle.

After scouring the outside area, return to the castle's entrance, where Eiko is being forcibly ejected. The group then enters the castle and a long series of scenes commences. Eventually, the party decides to attend the card tournament currently underway in Treno.

SIDE QUESTS

Remember the Four-armed Man? He drops an item if you do just the right things. PlayOnline covers it all

If you haven't been paying much attention to the card game up to this point, it's not a real problem. If you've picked up every card and if you've gained cards by defeating enemies, then you shouldn't have much trouble blowing away the competition. However, if your collector status is low and you haven't had much luck with cards, then you'll need to take some cards from Doctor Tot.

Arriving in Dr. Tot's tower, everyone runs off as usual to explore the area for themselves. It is very important to watch the ATEs that occur in Treno. Not only can you gain some insight into the pasts of Zidane and Vivi, but there's one scene in particular ("How He Ended Up Here") where you can send Vivi to Quan's Dwelling.

VISIT THE QUEEN!

Don't forget to trade in the Stellazzios you've found since your last stop in Treno. Queen Stella rewards you with a lot of Gil and some great items.

AUCTION AT THE KING'S MANSION

The last time you were in Treno, this is where Steiner finally caught up to Dagger. From there, you were probably taken straight into the Supersoft quest. Now you finally have the chance to bid on some rare and expensive items at the Treno Auction house.

Each time you enter the mansion, the auctioneer lists the items to be sold. Of particular interest is the Dark Matter, which enables a character to summon Odin. Also of interest are rare items such as the Mini-Cid, Rat Tail, Doga's Artifact, Une's Mirror, and the Griffin's Heart.

A good strategy for bidding is to wait patiently as the nobles bid back and forth on the item. When it seems that the item is about to be sold, outbid the highest offer and you will instantly purchase the piece. However, you want to be sure that you don't overbid!

LOW ON CARDS?

If you're running low on cards, you can always purchase some from the vendor in front of the card stadium. The vendor sells four types of cards for 100 Gil apiece.

After purchasing all of the items you want, the auction offers a lot of Add-on items that prove useful in battle. However, you should set a limit on how much you'll bid for these items. To do this, find the price of what it would cost to synthesize the item and add the cost of each material needed. Don't bid any higher than what it would cost you to buy the necessary items and synthesize the Add-on yourself. It may be a fancy auction, but you can still get ripped off.

OFFERS FOR YOUR GOODS

If you purchase items in the Treno Auction and then speak to the citizens near the Café Carta, they will offer to purchase the items that they want. If you sell the item to them, it will reappear at the auction later in the game. Usually, their offers are just a little better than what is listed as the best bid for each item in the table shown earlier. Once the nobles buy each rare item from you once, they don't offer to buy them again. Always decline their first offer, and they'll then raise their offer.

SHOPPING IN TRENO

Treno is a much better place to shop than it was previously. The Synthesist is now the best in the game, producing items not even made in Alexandria. If you're not completely depleted after the Treno Auction, then lay down some Gil on some good new weapons and Add-ons. Buy a few presents for Steiner and Dagger, too. You may be seeing them again sooner than you think.

DOWN TO BUSINESS

When you're ready, head to the card stadium and show the card-playing "pros" your skills. Speak to the Card Seller on the left side of the entrance to register in the competition.

Getting through the card tournament requires that you play at least three card games. You must win against the first two challengers to go up against the champion. You only get one shot at the title, so if you don't win, you don't get a second chance. Frankly, it's not that difficult to win the entire tournament with just a mediocre collection of cards.

The first opponent is Attic Man Wake. This guy uses a lot of magic cards, but they're only 1M. Pick five cards that have 2M, 3M, 3P, or 4P attack ratings and fairly decent defense ratings. That way, you're covered if your cards get into a battle. The best strategy is to play by the arrows before depending on the card's stats. For example, if he puts down a card that doesn't have an arrow in the lower-left corner, and you have a card that has an arrow in the upper-right corner, then you can turn his card blue without a fight. He will, of course, pursue the same strategy, so if you happen to have a lot of cards that are 2M, it might be better to ignore the previous strategy and instead place your cards arrow to arrow with his so that you win the fight.

WHAT IF I LOSE?

Losing the first or second round forces you to play a rematch. If you lose a lot and start to run out of cards, you can purchase more from the Card Seller outside the stadium. If you get down to less than five, Dr. Tot will give you better cards than the Card Seller.

MONSTERS IN THE CAGE

You can still fight the monsters in the cage under the Knight's Residence Weapon Shop; however, the battles are fairly tough.

DISC THREE

CARD TOURNAMENT IN TRENO

The second round pits you against Cardona Bishop, who's a bit better than the first contestant. It becomes important to pick cards that not only have strong stats, but a lot of arrows, too. Cardona plays the arrows of the cards quite well, so having a lot of arrows on each of your cards proves to be a good defensive measure. You're better off placing your cards arrow to arrow with his, starting a card battle to resolve things.

After winning two rounds, the Usher reminds you that you have but one chance to defeat the opponent. Before proceeding to the final match, return to the moogle at the Knight's Residence and save. That way, you can try again if you happen to lose.

Sailor Erin is your next opponent and she uses all Oglop cards. These are rare cards, so it will be good to try to win one. Her cards are all 1P or 2P and have a physical defense of 1, and no magical defense!

The key to winning is to employ cards of 1M, 2M, 3P or 4P. Try to win with the arrows first, and battle it out only if you must. Winning this round lets you pick an Oglop card, and you get the Rebirth Ring, which teaches all characters the valuable Auto-Life skill. If the round comes to a draw, you immediately play again. Lose and you get nothing. That's why it's important to break away and save before the third round! Afterward, Eiko rushes in with some terrible news.

THE BATTLE OF ALEXANDRIA

ENEMIES: MISTODON, TANTARIAN (OPTIONAL BOSS)
KEY ITEMS: NONE
ITEMS: NONE
CARDS: NONE

OBJECTIVES

- 1  Order the Knights of Pluto into action
- 2  Plow the monsters off main street
- 3  Follow the music to the top of the castle
- 4  Evacuate the castle dwellers
- 5  Challenge a mysterious monster
- 6  Save Dagger and Eiko from destruction

MUSTERING THE TROOPS

The beautiful city of Alexandria is besieged by the black horrors unleashed by Kuja. Dagger must quickly and precisely give out orders to the Knights of Pluto. You can tell that you're giving orders properly when the knights respond enthusiastically. If you give the knights the wrong tasks, they will be unsure of their orders.

The answer harks back to the very beginning of the game, when Captain Steiner had to give orders to all of the Knights of Pluto. If you spoke to Breireicht twice on the stairs, he rattled off a list of the knights and their personalities. Judging by their interests and abilities, you should know which order to give to which two knights.

SAVE THE QUEEN

Beatrix and Steiner run down Alexandria's main street, protecting the townsfolk from the evil Mist monsters invading the city. You will have a battle in each area, and your party will consist only of Beatrix and Steiner. Considering Beatrix's abilities, that's not necessarily a bad thing.

SPECIAL ITEM

Want to know how to get Beatrix's Save the Queen sword at the end of the game? If so, go to PlayOnline and check out the Side Quests section.

Equip Steiner with an Ice Brand and the Add Status ability. This may allow you to freeze a Mistodon, so that Beatrix can crush it on the next turn. Otherwise, Beatrix and Steiner should be able to attack a Mistodon once each and survive to the next battle.

When fighting two Mistodons at once, have Beatrix perform Climhazzard to bring them both down. You may only need one more blow to finish them off. Between each battle, use Hi-Potions and Ethers to keep both warriors energized.

Before this series of battles ends, you may want to consider exchanging some of your weaker equipment for the more beneficial fare Beatrix is wearing. You can use the Cross Helm, Thunder Gloves, Plate Mail, and Yellow Scarf that she's wearing to the benefit of Steiner or Freya later. However, Beatrix's Save the Queen sword is the only weapon she can equip, plus only she can use it.

In the last battle, an enraged Steiner automatically Trances. This takes place even if he Trances in the previous fight. He should be able to take out one Mistodon on his own, and Beatrix can perform Shock to take out the other.

CALL OF THE EIDOLON

Dagger feels a strange energy emanating from the entire castle and senses a calling from upstairs. Any route she attempts to take that isn't correct becomes blocked by a wall of invisible force, so it's really easy to determine where to go.

Lead Dagger up the circular steps to the third floor, and go through the double doors toward the Queen's chambers. Veer to the left, and go up a series of circling staircases. Each one becomes sealed off by the swords of two knight statues, preventing Dagger from turning back.

At the top, the castle transforms into a new shape. Lead Dagger up the stairs until the game takes over.

EVACUATE ALEXANDRIA

Zidane and the party arrive just in time to rescue Dagger and Eiko. Your fellow warriors are Vivi, Freya, and Amarant. Before following Dagger's path to the top of the castle, you may want to play the hero and clear everyone out. There's even an optional Boss to fight, if you think you're prepared!

OBJECTIVES

- 1 Find out Dagger's location from Blank
- 2 Go to Dagger at the telescope
- 3 Join Regent Cid's conference
- 4 Check on Dagger's condition
- 5 Ride the air cab to the Theater District
- 6 Search the art studio for the Strange Potion

- 8 Get the Beautiful Potion from Alice in the Business District
- 9 Return to the throne room with the three potions
- 10 Ride to the Serpent's Gate
- 11 Board the Blue Narciss

THE SILENCE OF SORROW

After the rescue, Zidane awakes in the Guest Room at Lindblum. The chests are all full of items, so make sure you pillage them and speak to Mogki. He has a letter for you to deliver to Moodon over at the Business District Inn.

As you head toward the stairs, Blank enters. If you ask him about Dagger, he'll tell you she's by the telescope on the roof. If you select the other option, he remembers to tell you to head to the Regent's throne room. Either way, you can speak to Dagger first or proceed directly to the throne room. You can also find your friends waiting in the conference room before going to see Cid.

Leave the conference room and return to the mid level of the castle. Return to the guest room, where everyone shows their concern for the princess. When the meeting recommences in the throne room, everyone discusses plans to return Regent Cid to human form. It's up to Zidane to search Lindblum for three items: Unusual Potion, Strange Potion, and Beautiful Potion.

A FLASK FULL OF HOPE

Cinna has the Unusual Potion, and the ATE that follows the throne room scene shows that he is helping repair the Tantalus hideout. Board the air cab and ride from the castle to the Theater District.

Before going to Tantalus, visit Michael's studio to the right. Ask the artist about it, and he will tell you to search his studio. Search the corner by the stairs to find the Strange Potion.

Now visit the Tantalus hideout. During the short scene, Cinna gladly gives Zidane the Unusual Potion. But after Zidane leaves the area, you may want to double-back and search inside the hideout for some more Gil.

Now there's just one more potion to find, and it's somewhere in the Business District. Ride the air cab there, but don't forget to give the letter to Moodon at the Inn.

Continue into the market square, where Alice's shop is under reconstruction. Ask Alice about the potion and she'll hand it over! Now with the Beautiful Potion in hand, you're ready to return to the castle.

GO SHOPPING!

Before you return to the castle, visit the Synthesist and other local shops. It's always a good idea to stock up on your inventory.

With the three potions in hand, return to Regent Cid's throne room in the castle.

Unfortunately, the mixture has a different effect on Cid than what was hoped for. However, the Regent is undaunted and continues the meeting from where it left off.

Cid and the party determine that the group should return to the Black Mage Village on the Outer Continent to determine the connection between the mages and Kuja. Leave the throne room and take the elevator to the base level. Ride the trolley on the right side to the Serpent's Gate. The Blue Narciss is docked at the end of the pier.

THE BLUE NARCISS

Once onboard the Blue Narciss, Quina rejoins the party and Cid tells you to select your party members.

SWITCHING PARTY MEMBERS

If you want to switch out the fighting team, press the Triangle button while on the World Map on the ship and speak with Cid to select new party members.

You can now visit any beach on the World Map. The only new outside town you can visit is Esto Gaza, which is on the Lost Continent, covered with ice (it lies to the north). Or, you can visit Alexandria by landing at the harbor on the eastern side of the Mist Continent. These sections are covered later.

THE BLACK MAGE VILLAGE, DESERTED

ENEMIES: NONE KEY ITEMS: NONE ITEMS: BLACK BELT CARDS: NONE

OBJECTIVES

- 1  Return to the deserted Black Mage Village
- 2  Follow Vivi to the cemetery
- 3  Witness a chocobo hatching
- 4  Figure out the next move at the entrance

NO ONE IN SIGHT

Pilot the Blue Narciss to Gegalrich Shores, just southeast of the Black Mage Village. You must still cross through the forest on foot, unless you head to the chocobo tracks far to the northeast of Qu's Marsh and call for a ride.

The Black Mage Village is mostly deserted. Vivi immediately takes off for the cemetery, but you don't have to follow him just yet.

Number 288 is still at the cemetery, and he explains why the Black Mages are assisting Kuja. Afterwards, follow Vivi to the hut, where the other two mages are nurturing the chocobo egg.

The scene then returns to the entrance of town, where the group determines to follow No. 288's tip and go to the desert on the eastern end of the Outer Continent.

SWIRLING SINKHOLES IN THE DESERT

Pilot the Blue Narciss to the far eastern end of the Outer Continent to a strip of beaches on the southeast end. Just north of this location is another beach, which is the best place to land. This should put you very close to four whirling sinkholes in the desert.

Move around the outside of the quicksand area, heading to the furthest area to the north. If you go to the wrong sinkhole, you'll get attacked repeatedly by Antlions. Look for the sinkhole without the "puffs" or "whisps" of sand coming out of it. When you reach the northernmost sinkhole, a "?" appears. Press the X button to enter.

AN OFFER YOU CAN'T REFUSE

After a short sequence between Zidane and Kuja, the Black Mages teleport Zidane to Kuja's room in the Desert Palace. The demonic overlord threatens to annihilate the heroes unless Zidane retrieves an item called the Gulug Stone from Oeilvert, an ancient fortress on the Forgotten Continent in the far west. Zidane must pick a party that doesn't rely on magic, because Kuja mentions that magic cannot be used in Oeilvert.

Choosing a party for this mission is a big decision. Whomever you leave behind forms a second party. Since magic doesn't work in Oeilvert, leave all of your magic users behind. This means that the best party to take to the Forgotten Continent would consist of Zidane, Steiner, Freya, and Amarant. However, Steiner is more useful when in the same party as Vivi. The decision is yours! You may want to place Quina in your party, because s/he can "eat" enemies and learn new Blue Magic.

MORE ABILITIES FOR QUINA

Quina can learn some fantastic abilities by eating the new enemies on the Forgotten Continent.

THE HILDA GARDE 1

The party heading to Oeilvert is teleported to the mountain airship dock. The massive Hilda Garde 1 is docked there, which is Cid's long-lost craft.

DEFEATING THE GRIMLOCKS

The Grimlocks with blue heads are weak against physical attacks and strong against magic. If they rearrange themselves so that they have pink heads, they can only be damaged effectively by magic.

Head over to the large craft and board. The vessel immediately departs for the Forgotten Continent. When the ship sets down in the grassy area north of Seaways Canyon, Zidane automatically disembarks, after which you won't be able to board again.

From the landing point, press the SELECT button until the mini-map appears in the lower-right corner of the screen. Proceed directly south and follow the Seaways Canyon, which spirals west and then inward.

THE UNFORGIVING DESERT

Upon disembarking from the Hilda Garde 1, you should stock up on medicine by purchasing it from the jester twins on the ship. You should equip each character with the Clear Headed ability, as well as Loudmouth and Bright Eyes.

QUINA SO HUNGRY!
If you made the choice to bring Quina along, work hard to satisfy that appetite. You can learn Limit Glove by eating Catoblepases or Jabberwocks, and the intimidating Adamantoise will yield the Earth Shake ability. If you haven't done so yet, learn the 1,000 Needles ability by eating a Cactuar.

SEAWAYS CANYON

The day becomes dusky and night threatens to fall when you reach the Seaways Canyon area. To reach Oeilvert, head into the canyons and veer off to the west. This canyon leads your party out to the western seashore. There, another canyon forms that spirals inward to the mysterious fortress, which is surrounded by high canyon walls.

FIGHTING STRATEGY

The Epitaph enemy puts up quite a fight. If you're having trouble defeating it, check out PlayOnline for the some fighting strategy.

Follow the top platform through a doorway to the left, and then examine the magic globe. This causes it to mysteriously change from blue to red.

Return to the lobby, go back downstairs, and proceed through the lower doorway to the left. As you continue to the right, a holograph appears in the center of the room. Circle around behind the image and search for treasure chests. There are a few doorways to the far left; ignore them for now, and proceed through the exit at the bottom of the screen.

There are two projectors set into the floor on this platform. Examining them causes nothing to happen at the moment, though. Head up the steps to find two more floor projectors. As Zidane suspects, there is a certain order to activating the projectors. Start with the top-left one, and work your way clockwise down to the one nearest the entrance. This reveals a bit of the history of airships, but not the ones used in Gaia. Following this, head out the top exit to explore further.

Zidane must cross a series of arching bridges. In the center of the two spans, search the global object and a short slide show begins. Then continue across the bridge to the left. This exits back into the area with the large hologram, just outside the previously locked blue door. Inside this chamber, a host of spooky faces enlighten the party about the plight of another world.

With these clues firmly in hand, return to the lobby and continue through the door on the far right. Another moogles stands at the back of this chamber, so save your game. As you proceed around the chamber to the right, another hologram appears in the center of the room.

Stepping through the final doorway, it seems you've reached a dead end. However, upon examining the platform, you activate an ancient mechanism that causes you to spiral down into a gigantic pit. At the bottom, Zidane finds the Gulug Stone. But something large and hostile shows up, attempting to prevent you from taking Kuja's prize.

TREACHERY OF THE WICKED

While Zidane is away treasure hunting for Kuja, the maniacal double-crosser proves that his word is not worth a penny. The lives of the heroes left in the Desert Palace are limited by an hourglass.

Since Regent Cid is the only one who is free to save the others, he must hop over to the hourglass and flip it over before the four remaining party members meet their fate. Move Cid to the center of the prison area, where he overhears a conversation between two Black Mages. An important clue is discussed. The Black Mages exit to the left, meaning Cid must go to the right.

FROG IN PERIL

A small mini-game ensues, with the heroes' lives in the balance. Using the Circle button, move Cid carefully and quietly across the floor toward the Hourglass Key, which is hanging on the back of a Hedgehog Pie's cage. You have only six minutes to get the key and determine how to unbalance the scales so that Cid can hop up to the hourglass. If the Hedgehog Pie sees you moving, you must start over again with whatever time is remaining.

If the six minutes expire and you haven't reached the key yet, the mini-game simply starts over again with Cid back at the beginning.

After successfully snatching the key, Cid makes his way to the scales in the back. Choose to examine the weights, so that Cid can determine what they're made of.

EIKO IN CHARGE

With the Hourglass Key in your possession, the remaining four party members meet in the center of the prison area. Eiko is automatically in the lead, and hopefully you have Vivi in the party as well.

First, head to the right again, into the room with the hourglass. From a taller perspective, you can see that there is a moogles named Mojito in here. Save your game and agree to deliver mail to Mogsam. Mojito also runs a Mogshop, and his inventory appears at the end of this section. Head back through the prison area, and proceed up the stairs to the far left.

"TURN THEM ALL ON..."

Light the candelabra under the angel on the left-hand side. This activates a bloodstone under the right-hand angel. Examine the bloodstone, which describes the properties of the object that powers the device. Remove the Promist Ring, which contains the Mag Elem Null ability.

Up the stairs, Eiko encounters the statue of an angel between two demon statues. Run to the far right, and then run to the left as if you're going to exit. This causes a magical staircase to appear. This hidden path leads to a balcony. Light the candelabra here, and then return to the previous room and continue off to the left.

A lavish staircase winds up to a patio area. The left side is cut off from the center and the right by a row of statues. Light all three braziers in the left area, which should cause the stained glass in the back on the left and on the right to disappear. Now, Eiko can move across the balcony to the right side.

Once there, only light the brazier in the bottom-left corner next to the statues. This causes the left three statues to disappear. Go back across the balcony to the center area, and read the inscription on the central mosaic: "The path will open when all lamps are lit."

Light the two braziers at the top of the central staircase, which causes the right set of statues to disappear. Light the two remaining braziers on the right, and then descend the central steps and light the large brazier on the small circular platform. This causes the stained glass on the far right to disappear, and the bloodstone under the mosaic activates. Extract the Anklet from the bloodstone, and then exit through the right doorway.

Halfway around this circular corridor, search for a candelabra to light. Then extract the Shield Armor from the bloodstone and continue to the back of the semi-circle. From there, move Eiko a little forward to go up the stairs.

Lighting the candelabra at the top of the steps causes a huge stained glass window overhead to light up. Circle around to the forefront of the screen, and then enter the library.

Move across the library and light the candles on the far left. This makes a staircase magically appear on the right. Ascend the stairs to the top level, and light the fixture on the left. This causes a section of bookcase to rise, revealing a hidden doorway. Extract the N-Kai Armlet from the bloodstone.

WATER SPELL

The N-Kai Armlet reduces Magic Eva to zero, so it would be better to equip just prior to the upcoming Boss fight.

Return to the library and descend the stairs on the right. Now move up the smaller staircase on the left, which leads to the mid level. A message on the left portion of the bookcase section gives an important clue about lighting all of the stained glass. Igniting the candelabra on the right raises the mid level section of bookcase to reveal yet another doorway.

Follow this balcony as it runs a circular course around the large central chamber. Stop off to light the candelabra, which illuminates the stained glass panel on the wall. Continue up the ramp to the top. Light another candelabra, which causes a new section of stained glass to appear. Now return to the library.

Move to the bottom level of the giant bookcase and light the candles on the right. This raises the bottom section, revealing a final balcony with another candelabra to light. This opens the left-hand wall in the library, and the moogles Mogsam is glad for it. Deliver the letter from Mojito, and save your game. Continue to the left past the moogles to the next candle-lighting challenge.

Examine the gargoyle on the back wall to find out that it's the "Apostle from the Underworld." Lighting the two candles causes the bloodstone on the balcony to activate.

Extract the Black Hood from it, and then head through the door across the balcony to the other side of the high chamber. Light all three candles on the left side of the chamber to activate yet another bloodstone. This one contains the Venetia Shield.

Now for the tricky part. Extinguish the left candle under the angel statue, and then cross back to the right side of the room and extinguish the left candle under the demon. This makes a staircase appear in the middle of the room. Ascend the staircase to the final area. Climb up the steps to the candelabra at the top. Examining the final candelabra triggers the security system, and the monolithic Valia Pira descends to counteract the intruders.

DESPERATE REUNION

The scene shifts back to the airship dock, where Zidane and the other party have just returned from Oeilvert. Return to use the teleporter.

This time, the magical device deposits Zidane and the crew outside Kuja's room. Only Zidane is allowed to enter, so that Kuja can collect his prize. When the other party members teleport in from the opposite direction, the heroes attempt to storm Kuja's chamber with disastrous results!

Now you must form a combat party and chase the diabolical villain back to the airship dock. We highly recommend a party of Zidane, Steiner, Vivi, and Amarant.

Run back out to the teleporter on the left, and beam back down to the airship dock. The gigantic Hilda Garde 1 is already gone! Fight your way to the end of the path, and keep running until you reach a cliff.

After the party resolves to chase Kuja by sea, kick the switch to lower the rope ladder and descend to the sandy surface. Move quickly, albeit carefully, toward the exit at the top of the screen.

HILLS OF SNOW AND ICE

The Blue Narciss chases Kuja in the Hilda Garde 1 across the ocean to the Lost Continent. There are few people in this region due to the frigid conditions on the plains. However, there is a small citadel on the continent called Esto Gaza, where the inhabitants have formed a religion based on the magic emanating from the Shimmering Island to the south.

When the ship lands at the south shore of the continent, run to the west to reach Esto Gaza. The toughest monsters of the continent seem to appear more frequently in the south end.

If you want to reach Esto Gaza with less hassle, there are some chocobo tracks in the snow just north of the landing spot.

THE CULT OF THE SHIMMERING ISLE

COME PREPARED

The outer portion of Esto Gaza is currently swarming with flying enemies called Garuda. Prepare your party by equipping the Locomotion ability on everyone, so that they won't succumb to the Stop spell cast by these enemies.

As quickly as possible, enter the main building. Inside, the party encounters the Bishop, the leader of the town. He begrudgingly admits that Kuja and the Black Mages went straight through town to Mount Gulug, an extinct volcano. You can follow them by heading out to the back patio through the left exit.

However, you should head to the right first, where you'll find most of the citizens of Esto Gaza holed up. There's an Equipment Shop with an inventory of new items for each of your characters. Also, explore the area thoroughly just in case there are some hard-to-find treasure chests.

Upon returning to the main hall, the area is teeming with people. The Bishop stands on the left side and will let you rest for 100 Gil. Catching a few Z's is not a bad idea before following Kuja to Mount Gulug.

On the series of platforms behind the town, Mogrika stands by to let you save your game. She has a disturbing letter about Mognet, and desperately needs you to deliver a letter to Moolan. Step to the highest platform to catch a breathtaking view of the place the worshippers call the "Shimmering Island," or the "Path of Souls." Head down the steps to the right to proceed.

You will quickly find the entrance to Mount Gulug. Sealed for many thousands of years, the doors now stand open. What perils await inside?

NEW ABILITIES

Quina can always learn new abilities. To find out which ones s/he can learn here, go to PlayOnline.

From the entry point, head into the house on the left. Search amongst the rubble for some goodies and note the message on the bulletin board. Return to the entrance and continue to the right.

Proceed through the next dilapidated hut, and then find a rope to slide down. Before descending, you may want to examine the rest of the cavern just in case there are some more items available.

In the top corner is another bulletin board that explains how to operate a lever somewhere. Now slide down the rope into the chasm. This deposits you near a well; the lever that controls it is on the left-hand side. There are some items to get on this level before you pull the lever and continue to descend.

Head to the right first. This is where Moolan the moogles stands vigilant. Give him the letter from Mogrika, which contains more clues about Mognet. He then asks you to deliver a letter to Mogtaka in return. In the bottom-right corner, search the area for another cool item. Save your game, and then continue to the right.

Another dilapidated house has a staircase to climb on the far right. There's another message at the top in the corner with a clue about the lever. Continue up the steps and head out the top-left exit. Follow this platform to the end to find some new armor. As you return to the well area, a couple of Red Dragons burst through the roof and attack.

It's time to explore the area to the left of the well. Go past the cave opening into the crumbling house. Search to the right inside the condemned building, and then check the wall to the left to find another message. This one indicates that the true solution to the well is to pull the lever three times.

Exit the left house and go through the opening in the wall. Up the stairs is Mogtaka, for whom you have a letter. Mogtaka also runs a Mogshop. Stock up on Hi-Potions and then continue up the stairs. On the top level, another Red Dragon bursts through the wall and attacks.

GREED OF THE DARK SPAWN

Finally, return to the well and pull down the lever three times to lower the rope. Climb down into the well bottom, where another set of Red Dragons break through the wall, creating an exit. Defeat the dragons and step through the dust. The party can see that the jester twins, Zorn and Thorn, are attempting to extract the Eidolons from Eiko.

The scene shifts down to the floor for a quick Boss fight between Eiko and the jesters. However, the battle immediately ends when Eiko summons Madeen.

EIKO'S NEW SUMMON

KUJA'S MASTER SCHEME

The following morning, Zidane is awakened by a Lindblum palace guard. On the upper level, Mogki has a letter he'd like you to deliver to Kumool, if you're willing.

Lady Hilda holds a meeting in the conference room. Your new objectives are to search Ipsen's Castle on the Forgotten Continent for clues as to how to open the gateway to the villain's home world, Terra.

The only problem is, Dagger can't be found anywhere in Lindblum. Just when Zidane is ready to give up, Baku takes him to find Beatrix, who hands over the Garnet for Dagger.

Not long afterward, Zidane finds Dagger by her mother's grave. The princess has regained her ability to speak, so her magic abilities will no longer be hampered. Meanwhile, Regent Cid has finished his masterpiece airship, making travel across the world quite a breeze.

THE HILDA GARDE 3

After a brief reunion on board the airship, command of the Hilda Garde 3 is turned over to you. Your next destination is Ipsen's Castle on the Forgotten Continent, which is now marked on the World Map. To get there, press the SELECT button until the World Map appears. Move the cursor to Ipsen's Castle and press the X button to fly there immediately.

THINGS TO DO WITH YOUR NEW TOY

At the first chance, return to the bridge of the ship and exit through the left doorway. Continue down to the deck, and move forward until you see a ladder. Explore the area to find any items.

There are two cities to consider visiting at this point in the game. One is Alexandria, since you may not have had the chance to return there and hunt for items amongst the debris. The other city is Daguerreo, and it's only accessible by airship or with a Gold Chocobo. Read further to find out what there is to gain from visiting these two cities. You can skip to the description of Ipsen's Castle when you are ready to continue the adventure.

Players can visit the ruins of the once grand city any time after the party has fully recuperated in Lindblum. You can pilot the Hilde Garde 3 to Alexandria Harbor on the eastern side of the Mist Continent, or you can touch down on the plains just outside of town.

The Memorial Square is no more. When you enter town, the first area is now the main street leading into the square. Doug's Medicine shop is completely gone, and there no longer seems to be a way to purchase Potions and such in Alexandria anymore. What a tragedy...

However, the Shopkeeper who used to run the Armory now stands just outside of the Inn, on the left side of the square. His inventory remains the same until the end of the game.

Things seem sort of grim even in the mini-theater, where the destruction Alexandria has suffered seems not apparent at all. Lowell has traveled from Lindblum to work with Ruby and her friend, and he's giving them all the attitude one might expect from a prima donna. In the alley leading back to the bell tower, you can stop and talk to the old man strolling by. He is the Synthesist, and despite the destruction of his shop, he can still forge items for you. Inside the bell tower, Kupo survived the battle and he's still hanging out inside.

Head upward from the square to the boat dock and search the area for some items. Ride the boat across the channel to where the grand castle once stood.

The left tower is all that stands of the castle, and even that has taken quite a beating. Move past the two Knights of Pluto sifting through the rubble, and enter the double doors on the left. The chamber containing the Neptune statue is still intact, and you can still ride it down to the Harbor. This enables a landing by sea, if you're still confined to ocean travel.

CITADEL OF THE WATER GOD

Daguerreo is located at the top of a mountain on an island in the Salvage Archipelago south of the Forgotten Continent. Pilot the Hilda Garde 3 to the largest landmass below the western frontier to find the entrance of the city. Land the airship on the plains, and move across the bridge to the large cave.

Consider visiting this mountain dwelling before proceeding with the adventure. Daguerreo has a full stock of new and powerful weapons and armor, some of which you can only find here. You can also find some useful items and a few tasks to perform.

LEVELING UP

The monsters around Daguerreo are tough, but after a dozen or so battles, you won't notice anymore. Since you can fully regain your strength just inside at the Library, Daguerreo is a very attractive area for leveling up your characters to a powerful status.

Inside Daguerreo, head off the center platform down to the right. Search the sunken path for some goodies, and then continue into the passageway. A clever, hydraulic-powered lift elevates you to the upper ledge. A moogles named Noggy always hangs out up here.

Directly across from the lift is the Synthesis Expert, who makes a whole slew of new weapons and items. You should browse through his inventory, which is listed at the end of this section.

THE MASTER TREASURE HUNTER

Near the Synthesis Expert, you'll encounter the mysterious Four-armed Man once more. This arrogant fellow assesses your Treasure Hunter Rank, which is a summary of all the treasures you've collected in the game up to this point, including those found in the Chocobo Hot and Cold side quest.

DAGUERREO'S LIBRARY

The bookshelves at Daguerreo are legendary, containing a copy of every volume ever written on every subject imaginable. Near the right entrance is Engineer Zebolt from Lindblum, who is studying hydraulics. To his left are two people arguing; one is the Sales Clerk who runs the Medicine store (her inventory is listed at the end of this section).

SUPPLY PROBLEMS IN DAGUERREO

The left exit from the library takes you to the Weaponsmith's Shop. However, he can't sell you anything because he's having trouble with his supplies. You must fix his problem before he can sell you anything. And believe me, you want to help this guy because he's got the good stuff!

To get his supplies flowing again, head back across the second floor library after speaking to the Weaponsmith. Go down to the first floor, and head straight across the entrance chamber to access the area beneath the Weaponsmith.

Examine the three lifts on the left wall. The levers on the top wall operate the lift, however, there's a malfunction that prevents the top lift from going all the way up to the second level. This is the heart of the Weaponsmith's problem.

Examine the levers. The Right lever raises and lowers the top lift, while the Left lever raises and lowers the bottom lift. Lower the Left lever until the bottom lift is at bottom floor level. Examine the bottom lift, and Zidane will spot a hole in the wall just above the platform. Now examine the staff leaning against bookshelves. Zidane will take it across the room and insert it into the hole. This keeps the bottom lift from raising.

Return to the levers and lower the Right lever until the top lift is at floor level. Move Zidane to it, and press the X button. He will get on and ride up to the second floor. Speak to the Weaponsmith and he will express his relief. He will immediately sell you equipment, and his inventory of amazing items appears at the end of this section.

THE PARADOX PALACE

The bewildering Ipsen's Castle looks like two castles smashed together, causing one to look upside down while the other part looks right side up. This indicates something about the nature of the place.

Until you reach a certain height in the castle, everything is upside down! Plus, your strongest weapons will cause a pitiful amount of damage to enemies. To remain strong, you must equip each character in the battle party with the WEAKEST WEAPON POSSIBLE!

Outside the entrance, Amarant rebels and decides to go at it on his own. You must now choose three other characters to accompany you inside. The best mixture of magic and physical force seems to be achieved by a party consisting of Zidane, Dagger, Steiner, and Vivi. They seem to be capable of the best teamwork, as well. However, if Quina has learned the LV4 Holy spell, then take him/her along. If Eiko has Madeen, that will also come in handy.

LIKE WALKING BACKWARDS

Take a deep breath and proceed up the long steps into Ipsen's Castle. Inside the foyer, explore the area for some items. Head up the steps in the back to venture into a courtyard of sorts.

The moogles Kumool stands in the bottom-left corner of the area. You might have a letter for Kumool from Mogki. Kumool also runs a very convenient Mogshop. Kumool sells Vaccines, so stock up while you have the opportunity!

There's a doorway across the courtyard from Kumool that overlooks an expansive area. As you can see, everything below this level is a mirror image of all that is above. Slide down the pole on the far-right side of the courtyard.

Move along the arches to the ladder, and climb up to the balcony. Follow the balcony out to a small overlook, and go through the next doorway and hop onto the ladder. Climb the ladder up and press the X button when the icon appears. Select to jump off to the left, and run around the gallery looking for items. Return to the ladder, but this time jump off to the right.

When you get back to the ladder this time, climb to the bottom and hop off. Cross the lower balcony and climb the steps on the right. Hop on the next ladder and climb up. Jump off this ladder and circle the other side of the balcony. Then climb the ladder to the top, and enter the archway on the top balcony.

Move to the bottom of the red-carpeted room and examine the fresco on the right. Sure enough, it's a secret door, but it's tough to open. Each time you try something, a new option becomes available.

Leaning on the fresco causes it to open right up, but it's a matter of making the correct options appear. Take the elevator near the back staircase up to the top floor.

A cocky Amarant has beaten Zidane here, and he considers this victory enough to be able to abandon the party. After the rascal stalks away, search the wall in the back and take the Fire Mirror, Water Mirror, Wind Mirror, and the Earth Mirror. Each Key Item is inscribed on the back with a clue as to the location of a shrine.

Using each of these items at each of their respective shrines opens the gateway to Terra. However, the guardian of the mirrors isn't willing to let you take away its treasures. Taharka materializes from its two-dimensional world, and a tough battle ensues.

MORE DISCOVERIES WHILE EXITING

Go back out the same way you came in, and climb the pole back up to the courtyard. There is a trap door that is barely visible just below the chest at the top of the courtyard.

Drop through this trap, and Zidane will land on the upside-down chandelier in the dark room below. Hop down and climb the pole back up to the courtyard.

Another trap door is under the balcony on the top-left side. This one drops you onto the upper level of the lower room. You might want to avoid this trap door as there is no reward for triggering it.

Return to the entrance and take note of the staircase that appeared on the left side going up to the top balcony as well. A new entrance is in-between the staircase and the first arch you entered on the right. This leads to the courtyard in the balcony area, and during your trip, look for some chests on the chandelier high above. Continue across the balcony to the upper archway, and descend the steps inside into a whole new area.

Ride the elevator in the center of the room down to find yourself in a room with Odin's electrified sword chained to the back wall. There are also two flower vases and three shelves on which to arrange them. Rearrange the vases, moving them from shelf to shelf in a counter clockwise direction. The electrical energies will fill the vase, and then you'll receive the Ancient Aroma.

THE LOST ALLY

Exit Ipsen's Castle and rejoin your friends at the bottom. Zidane receives the alarming news that Amarant has not yet emerged. As Zidane, return to the courtyard and slide down the pole. Amarant can be heard groaning at the very bottom of the room and rejoins the party. Now, Zidane and Amarant must fight their way back out of the castle. Make sure you equip Amarant with the Cat's Claws beforehand.

Outside the castle, a plan is formed to utilize the four mirrors found inside. The player has the option of exploring more of the World Map, fulfilling a few side quests, or moving straight on to the Four Shrines challenge. Just make sure you take the first opportunity to re-equip your characters with the best weapons available!

THE FOUR SHRINES

OBJECTIVES

Drop off Dagger and Eiko at the Water Shrine

Leave Amaranth and Freya at the Fire Shrine

Steiner and Vivi will head to the Wind Shrine

Zidane is stuck with Quina at the Earth Shrine

Avoid the traps in the ancient temple

Face the four Guardians of Terra simultaneously

ONE IS ALL, ALL IS ONE

Upon boarding the Hilda Garde 3, Zidane and the party review the clues uncovered in the Taharka's chamber. The party must conquer all four locations at the exact same time. This means splitting the party off into pairs and depositing them at the four shrines, located in four different locations around the world. The only challenge to this is finding the four shrines and defeating one of the four shrine guardians.

- The shrine closest to Ipsen's Castle is the Water Shrine, located in the waters in the center of the "hook" on the Forgotten Continent. Let the airship hover over the area and press the Circle button to drop off Dagger and Eiko.

- The Fire Shrine is located north of Esto Giza, on the Lost Continent. Fly into the volcano and press the Circle button to release Amaranth and Freya.

- As Zidane indicates, the next location is the Wind Shrine, located on the southeastern part of the Forgotten Continent. Press the Circle button to assign Vivi and Steiner to attack this shrine.

DISC THREE

THE FOUR SHRINES

- ! The Earth Shrine is located in the grassy area on the eastern part of the Outer Continent. Hover above the quaking area and press the Circle button to enter the shrine.

The game follows Zidane's and Quina's adventure, with brief cut-scenes to highlight the plights of the others.

FOCUS ON THE EARTH SHRINE

After the duo converse at the entrance, take one last chance to ensure that both are equipped with their strongest weapons. Ipsen's Castle has a way of leaving you with a weak armament, and you don't want that here.

A LITTLE HELP

Equip the following abilities on both characters, if possible: Auto-Float, Auto-Regen or Auto-Potion, High Tide, and Counter. They are listed in order of priority, in case you can't equip them all. Also, equip Quina with any items that absorb Earth damage.

When you're ready, proceed down the steps. As the mismatched pair makes their way down the corridor, a trap springs causing the walls to close from different directions. Press the X button when a "!" appears over Zidane's head to outmaneuver the sliding stones.

In the main chamber, follow Quina and examine the altar. At the same instant in all four shrines, the characters come face-to-face with the Guardians of Terra, the protectors of the four shrines. The only one you'll actually fight is the Earth Guardian.

CROSSING OVER

Following the simultaneous defeat of the four Guardians of Terra, it's time to cross dimensions and explore that other world for more answers. Pilot your airship to the Shimmering Island, which is the glowing iceberg just south of the Lost Continent. When you press the Circle button, the party gets drawn off the ship and into the new world.

STRANGERS IN A STRANGE LAND

The ominous Garland greets the party at their landing site on Terra. Select your party and head downward along the path. Random battles with powerful enemies begin almost immediately.

A strange blonde girl runs away from Zidane in the next area. The object is to pursue her, but there are valuable items off the path she follows. Don't worry, she'll wait up ahead.

Follow the mysterious girl over an alien bridge, and then climb down the webbing at the end. There is another web directly below the first one that leads down to a platform. Climb back up and follow the ledge around to the gap at the left. Jump across the gap and search for the hidden trunk around the corner, which contains a Mythril Racket. From this side of the gap, you have the option to climb down the webbing.

CULTURE SHOCK

At the entrance to the town of Bran Bal, Dagger has a serious flashback as the Invincible rises into the sky. Zidane must explore Bran Bal and find a place for Dagger to rest.

Pick a party of four, one without Steiner or Dagger. There is a green force field covering the portal in front of Zidane, so there's obviously no getting through this location for the time being.

Head down the stairs to the left, where Zidane will make a startling observation. From the left side of the pond, take a path under the stairs, and cross under the stairs where you will run into a "!" sign. Talk to the two people located to the left of the pond. The one who seems to be staring at the pond tells Zidane that the Inn is directly behind him. When you examine the Inn, Zidane goes back to get Dagger while Eiko bothers everyone for some medicine. Dagger wakes up and explains why she fainted, and then Zidane wanders off to explore the community.

Move Zidane across town to the doorway on the far right. In this small storage room, look for the moogles trapped in a basket. Moorock wants you to deliver mail to Mozme, if you're willing. The appreciative moogles also opens a rather complete Mogshop for you to purchase new equipment (the inventory follows this section).

In a house to the right of the Inn, a group of individuals stands around a triangular stone and stares. Speaking to everyone here gives you some idea as to the kind of society that exists on Terra. A staircase on the right side of the room goes down to a lab, where the young blonde-haired woman waits for Zidane.

Conversing with the girl opens a floodgate of secrets and truths. The girl eventually leads Zidane out of Bran Bal to find out more of the truth.

In the meantime, Dagger asks an impatient Eiko to go find Zidane. You can leave Bran Bal and take part in some more random battles if you're interested. But to keep the story moving, meet Amarant near the entrance and follow Zidane through the green portal on the platform. Eiko then learns that Zidane has already left for Pandemonium.

EVIL DESIGNS

Garland meets Zidane at the entrance of Pandemonium and leads him on a kind of twisted tour of the place. You must hop from platform to platform, following Garland as the evil wizard talks about social issues on Terra and the meaning of life, among other things.

Zidane passes out and is awakened by Eiko and Vivi, who finally managed to find him. Unfortunately, the weight of the truth is too much for our furry-tailed hero, and he tries to set off on his own. Outside the first chamber, Zidane encounters an Amdusias.

Afterward, Zidane rejects their friendship as well and staggers on. In the next area, Steiner and Quina are having difficulties in a fight against a monster. Zidane then joins in.

PlayOnline.com

KEYWORD:
WEAPON1
FIGHTING STRATEGY

One particular weapon proves beneficial in this area. To find out which enemies it's effective against, refer to PlayOnline.

After stomping on their feelings, Zidane goes in the next room and picks a fight with a Shell Dragon. His bad mood causes him to sag in the saddle quite suddenly, and Dagger steps in to help. Finally, Dagger, Steiner, and Quina convince Zidane to keep fighting for what he believes in, going against the current of fate.

As you run back into the previous area, the rest of the group rejoins Zidane.

Witnessing this glad occasion is the faithful Moorock, who offers to sell the same items as in Bran Bal. In addition, Moorock also switches out your party members. Return to the throne, where Zidane's self loathing culminated to find a Holy Miter.

Continue along the path Zidane was taking alone, heading to the left. This takes you to an area covered with dormant blue lights. The control panel is next to the entry point. Activating this causes the blue lights on the floor to turn off and on in alternating patterns.

HURRY UP!

You have 30 seconds to get across the floor and the holographic bridge beyond. If you don't make it in time, the bridge disappears, meaning you must start over. Also, if you touch one of the lights while it's lit, you're forced to fight a monster, and your 30 seconds will definitely run out.

To cross this area without incident, activate the control panel and spend the entire 30 seconds watching the pattern of the lights on the floor. It repeats the same pattern every time! Now activate the panel again, and cross the area avoiding all the lights as they come on.

Across the holographic bridge, you'll find another alien control device of some type. There's not much purpose to it right now, but you'll find out what it does when you proceed into the next room.

This large chamber houses several levels of interconnected platforms and a single elevator which connects to them all. The trick is that the control panel is in the previous room. Therefore, you must run back there and change the setting so that the elevator platform turns to face the dock you want to leave from or get to.

Since the explanation of which platform rides up to which one would be too wordy and difficult to understand, please refer to the screenshots and travel from dock to dock accordingly.

DISC THREE

PANDEMONIUM

When you return to the control room and adjust the angle of the elevator enough times, half the group offers to stay in the control room and adjust the platform for you. This is great, because then you can just press the SELECT button and change the controls with the sub party rather than having to run back out there. Once you've mastered the system, ride out the top of the room.

From the landing platform, head to the teleporter on the right and go up one floor. This moves you to the center of a series of teleporters. From your arrival point, go to the left and teleport down to the lower platform. Search the area for treasure chests, and then teleport back up to the home platform, cross to the far right, and teleport down to another platform. When you return to the home platform this time, move to the top teleporter, jump up to the red platform, and teleport back to the landing platform.

From there, move down from the elevator and curve over to the left teleporter. Go up one floor to enter the same teleporter-filled room again, only on a different series of platforms. Move down and to the right from the landing pad, and teleport upward twice.

Teleport back down to the lowest path, move to the upper-right platform and teleport up twice. Standing here is Mozme, for whom you should have a message. This is your last opportunity to save, so prepare accordingly and get the proper characters in your party.

As Kuja ravages the area with his terrifying new powers, there's only one thing to do: get the heck outta here! Zidane resolves to save the people of Bran Bal, so you must take a new path across a holobridge to a large teleporter with blinking eyes. Then run Zidane back to Bran Bal and search in the basement lab for the blonde-haired girl.

The former soldiers of Kuja now welcome the survivors of decimated Terra. After a series of brief scenes, the party immediately heads out in the Invincible, the ultimate airship!

WORLD OF SHADOWS

Significant changes have occurred in the world since your trip to Terra. The entire planet is now shrouded in Mist, making everything darker and more difficult to see.

Roots of the Iifa Tree have surfaced in new areas all over the world. Several locations that you might have been able to revisit previously are now sealed off permanently. Closed areas include: Conde Petie, Desert Palace, Oeilvert, Observatory Mountain, Esto Gaza, Ice Cavern, and Pinnacle Rocks.

However, the biggest difference is the giant ball of destruction hovering over the Iifa Tree, blackening the sky and blotting out the sun. This swirling ball of evil is your final destination. To "begin the end," equip your characters properly and pilot the Invincible into the burning globe.

An added feature enables you to teleport back to the entrance of Memoria. However, you cannot teleport back to this location from the entrance. If you leave, you must follow the same path all over again to return to this point.

When you cross through the barrier, you'll experience the Deathguise Boss fight. After that, you have an opportunity to leave and return before facing Trance Kuja and Necron, but there is no break between those two. Good luck!

SIDE QUESTS, MINI-GAMES, AND SECRETS

This section details some of the side quests, mini-games, and secrets contained within this epic adventure called FINAL FANTASY IX.

JUMP ROPE

The first mini-game encountered during FINAL FANTASY IX is the jump rope mini-game in Alexandria. To participate, have Vivi approach the little girls jumping rope to the left of the ticket booth. Once he has done so, the girls offer to let him join. This is a good opportunity to earn some Gil, get extremely rare cards, and obtain a Key Item very early in the game.

CHOCOBO HOT AND COLD GAME

Upon setting out from Lindblum's Dragon's Gate, you can venture due east over land to the Chocobo's Forest. This is where you get to meet Mene and his pal Choco.

Many of the side quests described in this section depend entirely upon your progress in FFX and in the Chocobo Hot and Cold game. Your party will not be able to reach certain areas or find some powerful items until you have commandeered certain vehicles and Choco has acquired the necessary skills to swim, climb mountains, or fly.

Each time you pay Mene 60 Gil, you get 60 seconds to search the Chocobo Forest for valuable items and Gil.

CHOCOGRAPHYS

There are certain items buried deep beneath the ground in the forest called Chocographs.

Chocographs are items that provide clues as to the whereabouts of buried treasure that Choco can dig up on the World Map. During your first visit to the Chocobo Forest, you may find the first Chocograph within 3 or 4 games.

SIDE QUESTS

CHOCOGRAPH LOCATIONS AND TREASURES

There are a total of 24 Chocographs in the game. Do your best to uncover them all!

OTHER THINGS CHOCOBO

There are additional aspects to the Chocobo Hot and Cold side quest. For example, Chocobo's Lagoon, Chocobo's Air Garden, and Chocobo's Paradise among many others.

For the most complete coverage of all things chocobo, please refer to PlayOnline.

MOGNET CENTRAL

The "Chocobo Hot and Cold" game, along with all the treasure hunting it entails, is by far the most complex side quest in FINAL FANTASY IX. Yet completing the side quest and getting the gold Choco is essential to unlocking so many other side quests. One such quest that depends on the gold Choco is the revival of Mognet.

On your way through Esto Gaza to Mount Gulug, delivering a letter to Mogrika the moogle causes her to indicate that Mognet is shutting down because of an accident. From this point on, most of the mooglees will not have any letters to deliver and won't ask you to deliver any due to problems at the home office, Mognet Central.

To fix Mognet Central, you must travel to and from quite a few different locations delivering letters from moogle to moogle. For completing this huge task, you receive a nice item.

FEED THE MOOGLE FAMILY

Each time you receive a Kupo Nut for delivering mail between the mooglees, return to Gizamaluke's Grotto and feed it to the father of the moogle family. You'll receive a random item in return. During the Chocograph treasure hunt, one of the stashes contains a full set of Hawaiian gear, but only 7 Aloha T-shirts. That leaves one of your characters out of the luau!

STELLAZZIO

There are 12 Stellazzio coins, plus a thirteenth hidden coin, to find in different areas at any point during the game, even on Disc 4. Take these coins to Treno and offer them to Queen Stella. You receive a reward for each coin you hand over to her. The prizes get better with each coin you hand over, regardless of the order in which you do so.

(Some FINAL FANTASY veterans may remember some of these items from previous FINAL FANTASY titles.) These items have some strange uses, plus you can resell them.

KEYWORD:
QUAND6

SIDE QUEST

Frog catching is very beneficial. To see what you can get, go to PlayOnline.

KEYWORD:
QUINFR7

FROG CATCHING

When you enter the frog pond area of any Qu's Marsh, Quina asks to spend some time catching frogs. Quina must be in your party for this to occur. If you agree to let him/her catch frogs, you can control Quina as s/he runs around the pond attempting to catch the frogs that leap onto the ground out of the water. There's no real strategy to this; you just need to be swift.

As Quina catches more and more frogs, Quale appears occasionally and congratulates Quina on his/her progress. The master Qu then bestows items upon Quina as rewards for catching frogs. If you can catch 99 frogs, Quale challenges your party to a battle.

MR. MORRID'S COFFEE

Before going to Dali after leaving the Ice Cavern, first head to Observatory Mountain near the village. There's an elderly fellow inside the hut named Morrid, who's just dying for a good cup of java. Find the three coffees at different locations in the world and return to Observatory Mountain with them, before the end of Disc 3, and Mr. Morrid will reward you.

FINAL FANTASY ITEMS AND MUSIC

We've mentioned earlier that several items for sale at the Treno Auction House are from previous FINAL FANTASY titles. There is some purpose to this, but it takes a bit of work to uncover it.

CRIME AND PUNISHMENT

There is a rarely seen ATE that you can view under the proper circumstances. This ATE only becomes available during your first visit to Treno, after returning to Dr. Tot's tower to get the Supersoft.

RACING HIPPAUL

You can only take part in this mini-game with Vivi at the beginning of Disc 3. Hippaul stands with his mother on the main street in Alexandria. When you speak to Hippaul's mother, Vivi and Hippaul will run a race.

You are rewarded quite well for defeating Hippaul, but it will take some time and effort.

NERO BROTHERS' GAMBLING

You can take part in a gambling mini-game with the Nero Brothers. It resembles the shell game, and you only receive Gil as a reward for playing.

RENAMING CHARACTERS

You can win the rare Namingway Card from Mario during the card tournament in Treno. You can also find the card inside Kuja's room during the sequence in the Desert Palace.

You can then use the card to rename a character in your party as long as you complete a specific task.

RANKING IN DAGUERREO

The true identity of the four-armed bandit is revealed after you've collected enough treasures to gain a Treasure Hunting Rank of "S." You can view your rank at any time by speaking to the Four-armed Man or to the woman at the Treno Inn. You must then track down the Four-armed Man to receive a Key Item.

SECRET OF THE EIDOLON WALL

One of the big secrets of the game is that Princess Garnet's true name is engraved somewhere in Madain Sari. There is a very complicated way to reveal the truth at the beginning of Disc 4.

The process is quite complicated, and takes some time to complete.

EXCALIBUR

You can get a very powerful sword for Steiner by completing a short side quest. However, take note that this occurs late in the game and will cost you quite a bit of Gil.

EXCALIBUR II

You can even get the Excalibur II, but this secret will take every ounce of your gaming skills. You will need to finish the game within a certain time limit, so good luck!

HADES

Extremely late in the game, you can encounter Hades, an optional Boss. In Memoria, the player enters a room where Quina thinks that there is water and tries to swim. After the scene, search the hidden area amongst the coral on the right side of the screen. When an ominous voice begins to ward you off, persist in the conversation to fight Hades.
